

Astronauts Get Blood Tests, Interrogation

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 11 astronauts take further blood tests today for possible infection by unknown—and improbable—moon organisms.

Then, in their fourth day of isolation in the lunar receiving laboratory, they go before a closed-circuit television audience of space officials for a thorough review, lasting most of the day, of their lunar landing mission.

Previous blood tests on the five men showed no ill effects or anything unusual, Dr. Carpenter said, but additional tests were needed to turn up possible early stage infection. A sign of this could be a rise in the count of white blood cells, which defend the body against harmful outside organisms.

The doctor added: "All our evidence to date shows there really is nothing there."

If the astronauts develop no illness that can be traced to the moon, the quarantine ends on Aug. 11. If an illness does develop, the quarantine could go on indefinitely.

The space agency announced that if all goes well the astronauts would make their first public appearance at a press conference planned for Aug. 12. They entered the lunar receiving laboratory last Sunday.

But while they're out of sight, they're not forgotten.

Space agency officials said the mailroom at the Manned Spacecraft Center was being swamped by letters and telegrams to the moonmen.

El Salvador Okays Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tentative agreement was reached early today by the Organization of American States for a settlement of the 16-day old El Salvador-Honduran crisis.

Terms of the peace settlement were reached after El Salvador, in a surprise move, agreed to withdraw its troops, which have occupied Honduran soil for the past two weeks.

Fist-Shaking Farmers Assail Sen. Dirksen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capitol police plucked Sen. Everett M. Dirksen from the midst of shouting, fist-shaking farmers Tuesday, ending a confrontation over protests that U.S. farm policies are leading to rural ruin.

The 200 farmers, wives and children—who drove from Illinois, Dirksen's home state, in a caravan of tractors—surrounded the Republican leader as he emerged from the Senate chamber.

They demanded a return to full parity in farm prices and a stronger voice for farmers on all future federal agricultural policies.

When Dirksen told his constituents he is one of 20 senators supporting a bill to take up to 10 million acres of farmland out of production and to end existing farm programs within five years, he was answered with shouts of, "No! No!"

Give To Poor

The shouting got louder when he responded to a request that he buy a bushel of grain at the parity price—$3.96 compared to about the present market value of about $1.05—by pulling a $20 bill from his wallet. He told the

No Further Peace Concessions: Nixon

SAIGON (AP) — President Nixon flew to Saigon today and declared the United States and South Vietnam could make no further peace concessions. Later he told U.S. soldiers at a nearby base that the war "may have been our finest hour."

Nixon flew first into the heart of Saigon becoming the first U.S. president to visit South Vietnam's capital. He was accompanied by his wife who made her own bit of history by touring a field hospital and a home for war orphans. No other First Lady has visited South Vietnam.

Nixon also became the first president to visit a combat base in South Vietnam. He spoke to the American troops at Di An, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division 12 miles north of Saigon.

Visits Thieu

Nixon spent five hours and 25 minutes in Vietnam, much of it in conferences with President Nguyen Van Thieu and other government leaders.

A White House source said Nixon and Thieu discussed a new U.S. troop withdrawal beyond the 25,000 already ordered but no final decision was reached. He added they did not pin down the number to be withdrawn or the timetable but these details will be ironed out in the last half of August.

Nixon also discussed with Thieu the current lull in ground fighting and decided that if it proved to be enemy de-escalation the pullout of U.S. forces would be speeded, the source reported. But he said the United States has no evidence North Vietnam is withdrawing its forces but may be moving them into Laos and Cambodia.

Square-Bowed Ship Raised At Marinette

MARINETTE, Wis. (AP)—A mystery ship which has lain submerged in Lake Michigan waters for a century was brought to the surface of Green Bay Tuesday as several thousand excited spectators cheered.

Cranes lifted the 110-foot sailing vessel to the surface alongside a salvage barge in the climax of a two-year ordeal by a team of scuba divers who found it in 19 fathoms of water off Chambers Island.

"Beautiful!" exclaimed Mrs. Ellie Hoffman, wife of the diving crew chief, Frank Hoffman of Egg Harbor, Wis., as the outline of the rust-colored ship appeared about two feet above the water.

"Most beautiful thing I've ever seen," she added as tears welled in her eyes.

Hoffman and Harold Derusha, president of the Marinette Marine Corp., who provided most of the financing and equipment for the project, took a victory walk on top of the cabin and deck house. They were the first to step on the ship.

They hugged each other and jumped up and down to the accompaniment of cheers from the crowd—estimated by Pinkerton security guards at upwards of 3,500.

The scene took place at the Marine Corporation yards where the ship had been towed last week.

Members of the crew said that the ship appeared to be solid and Hoffman said he thought the hull was intact although only an inspection of the hold could determine whether there are leaks.

State Asks FBI's Aid In Search For Killer

Investigation Of Slayings Leads To Kentucky

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — A sheriff and a police chief made a quick trip to Hazard, Ky., today to question a man Hazard city police said had admitted killing a girl in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area.

The arrest in Kentucky was the latest lead as law authorities probed for a break in a series of baffling murders of seven young women in southeast Michigan in two years.

The most recent victim, 18-year-old Karen Sue Beineman, will be buried today in her hometown of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey and Ann Arbor Police Chief Walter Krasny left for Kentucky after being told of the man's arrest.

Hazard police said the man was taken into custody along with two teen-age girls Monday and was charged with reckless driving and carrying a concealed weapon. A large knife was found.

Hazard Police Chief Sam Luttrell said Wednesday a girl who told police a 19-year-old Monroe youth had killed a young woman near Ann Arbor changed her story.

Luttrell said the girl told her parents that the youth only intended to kill a girl at a place she called "Detroit beach."

Luttrell said the youth apparently was angry with the girl because she cheated him out of some money. The police chief said the youth had not yet made a statement to officers.

Hazard police identified him as a 19-year-old youth from Monroe, Mich., which is south of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti.

The girls, according to police, were from Dundee, Mich. Police said the parents had retrieved the girls Tuesday.

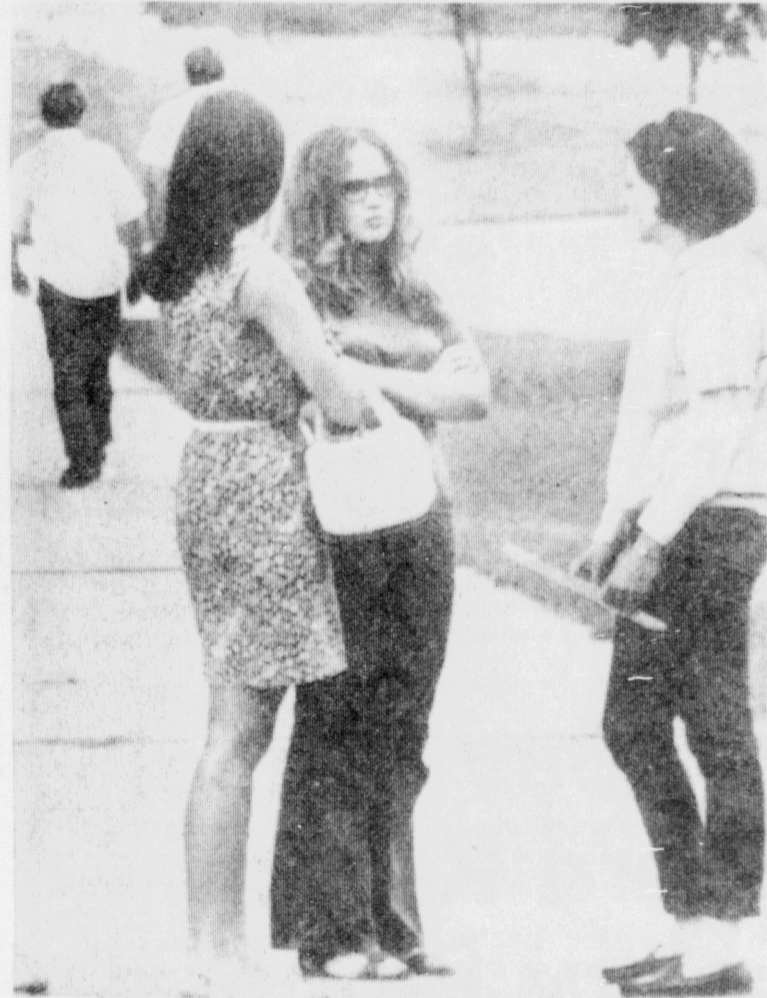

Other developments Tuesday included:

—The Washtenaw County sheriff's department released a detailed composite picture of a young man, who Ypsilanti store clerks said gave Miss Beineman a ride on a motorcycle last Wednesday when she was slain near Ypsilanti.

—Eastern Michigan University, where Miss Beineman was a freshman, distributed 4,000 handbills showing an earlier, less detailed composite of the motorcyclist.

—Ann Arbor police confirmed that in following up another lead, they have been staking out a home in Ann Arbor to question a man when he returns. They said it was mainly routine.

Police in the past have received confessions in the seven killings, but have discounted all of them.

EASTERN MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY coeds show signs of tension as they stop to talk on campus grounds in Ypsilanti. Karen Sue Beineman, a freshman at the university, was the eighth young woman murdered in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area in the past two years. Her body was found nude and battered Saturday near Ann Arbor. Coeds on the campus are refusing to give their names to the press when photographed or questioned. (AP Wirephoto)

Nixon Pressures Surtax Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has reached from half-way around the world in an attempt at pressuring the Senate into extending the income surtax, in danger of dying at midnight Thursday.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Tuesday night he had been in communication with Nixon in Thailand. The President "is deeply concerned by the inability of the Senate to act and the injury this threatens to every citizen," Agnew said.

"He intends to discuss these matters frankly and fully with the American people upon his return Monday," the vice president went on. An aide said Nixon might go on radio and television at that time to get the public behind him.

Prior to the statement by Agnew, who canceled a West Coast speaking engagement today to be on hand to fight for extension, the surtax appeared the probable victim of a Democratic Senate deadlock.

The temporary extension of payroll withholding rates including the surtax expires at midnight Thursday, and both sides in the dispute agree if this happens it will be very difficult to revive the surcharge.

The Senate Democratic Policy Committee held firm Tuesday on its proposal for a five-month extension of the surtax, rather than the one-year plan of the administration. The Democrats said their proposal would give the Senate time to work out a broad tax reform bill which they say must accompany continuance of the surtax.

And the Democrats turned the screws tighter by announcing they would not consider a 15-day extension of the paycheck withholding rates which the House Rules Committee on Tuesday cleared for floor action, possibly today.

Although the administration again turned down the Democratic proposal, a possible break appeared in the Republican ranks when Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen said he favored accepting the temporary extension as the best that could be obtained.

Rogers Offers Okinawa Plan

TOKYO (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers offered Japan a counterproposal on Okinawa today believed aimed at preserving the striking power of the big American bases there.

Rogers made his suggestion in a new round of secret talks with Japanese Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi over the problem of the return of the Ryukyu Islands, of which Okinawa is the largest.

American officials later said their 90-minute meeting was useful and constructive but that some fairly important points were still open. The two men agreed to meet again in Washington prior to the United Nations General Assembly opening Sept. 16.

The nature of the counterproposal was not revealed, but the American position is generally well known. It calls for free American use of the bases after the United States gives up its 24-year rule of the Ryukyu Islands to Japan American nuclear weapons stockpile based in the islands would remain. The islands were captured by U.S. forces in World War II.

The Japanese are asking that the bases be subjected to the prior consultation provisions of the present U.S.-Japan security treaty and that the nuclear weapons be removed.

Milliken, Kelley Place Davids In Charge Of Hunt

Associated Press Writer

LANSING (AP) — State Police Director Col. Fredrick Davids today was placed in charge of the manhunt for the killer or killers of seven young women slain in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area in the past two years.

Gov. William Milliken and Attorney General Frank Kelley made the announcement in an unusual joint press conference.

Milliken said secondly that he and Kelley have requested the U.S. Attorney General to cooperate with the full involvement of the FBI.

"Attorney General John Mitchell assured us of the federal government's desire to cooperate in the fullest extent possible and said the specific request for FBI involvement would get a very early response," Milliken said.

Coordination

"These actions do not indicate any dissatisfaction with the overall conduct of the investigation to date or with the degree of cooperation," the governor said.

"But it is essential that we move beyond cooperation to assure that there is effective coordination. These actions further reflect the fact that extraordinary circumstances require extraordinary measures."

"We do not wish to raise false hopes (of solution of the crimes)," the governor said, "but rather want to assure the people of this state that all the action that can be taken is being taken."

The governor said he and the attorney general made the request in both a telephone call and telegram to the U.S. attorney general.

Kelley commented that the announcement "should be very clear to all citizens of Michigan, especially to the mothers and fathers of the young women of Washtenaw County and to those young women as well that:

End Terror

"Your state government is taking every available step to help the professional law enforcement officers on the scene solve these horrible crimes and bring those responsible to justice."

"We are marshaling every resource, mobilizing every individual, and utilizing every technique within our power in an all-out effort to end this terror," the attorney general said.

"We will do all that we can, and the law enforcement officers carrying out this investigation are working day and night," Kelley said.

"But to a great extent, this case lies in the hands of the people in Washtenaw County, and especially young women who are the prime targets in these crimes."

Kelley had this advice to young potential victims:

"Use a common sense and a quick wit which has helped make your generation the most aware 'with it' generation of our time. Be alert—be clever, be careful. Some of the nation's top homicide detectives advise me and I tell you today—that the one of the best ways to protect yourself is by use of the 'buddy system'."

Disclose Plans

"When you are going out on a date or for some other purpose, tell a friend where you are going, when you are going and with whom you are going and, then tell the person you are going with that you have told a friend."

"But above all," Kelley cautioned, "use that natural intelligence which is the hallmark of

News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, often pointed to as potential Democratic presidential contender in 1972, says it would be premature to discount Edward M. Kennedy's political future.

MARINER PATHS PAST MARS

IN THIS DIAGRAM, as seen from below Mars, the trajectories past the planet, which will be taken by Mariners 6 and 7 are shown. Mariner 6, top, will make an equatorial pass and Mariner 7 will make a polar pass of the planet. (AP Wirephoto Diagram)

Mars Pictures Show Mountains

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mars-bound Mariner 6 has sent to earth long-shot photos showing features new to scientists: ragged edges on the mystery planet's south polar ice cap, perhaps due to mountains or craters, and a dark spot in the cap's center.

Another batch of closer pictures, scheduled for transmission back to earth tonight, may reveal more that is new.

Highlight of the tiny spacecraft's 156-day, 241-million-mile journey comes Thursday when it transmits close-ups after skimming within 2,130 miles of Mars to try to see if the red planet is capable of supporting life.

In three hours across 58 million miles of space Tuesday night, the 850-pound flying instrument platform returned 32 2-3 pictures taken earlier between 771,000 and 450,000 miles altitude.

Dim, Fuzzy

Most of the shots, shown at five-minute intervals on television monitors at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, were dim and fuzzy, depicting an egg-shaped body with the south polar cap gleaming on the right side. Few features were distinguishable. The frames were made 10,000 miles apart and as the final few flashed on screen, landmarks well known to astronomers from telescopic photographs from earth came into prominence.

The ragged cap edge became visible on frame 20, causing a laboratory spokesman to comment: "Perhaps the most exciting result is that some pictures show a ragged edge on the southern polar cap, possibly caused by the presence of mountains or craters. This is new information."

Dark Spot

The cap's dark spot, which the spokesman said had not been noted before and which he could not explain, showed on frame 30. Another feature of final shots was that the north polar cap, barely visible in early pictures, stood out brightly.

Experts at the laboratory, which built Mariner and controlled its flight, had expected the photos to be about equal in quality to those from earth telescopes. But they failed to match in clarity a simulation of earth pictures that was flashed on a monitor screen for comparison.

Big Bay School Board Rejects Salary Proposal

Teachers and the Big Bay de Noc School Board, reported to have come to an agreement on salaries at a meeting in Garden on July 21 with a state mediator, today appear to be farther apart than ever in negotiations over a new contract.

State Mediator Walter Quillico was present at the July 21 meeting at which the teachers at least thought agreement had been reached on an economic package for the 1969-70 school year.

Four of the seven members of the Big Bay de Noc School Board, including Board President Carl Van Remorel; representatives of the teachers including Carl Freiburg, president of the Big Bay de Noc Education; and Quillico attended.

Special Meeting

The School Board held a special meeting four days later and Frank Stupak, school superintendent, reported:

"The Big Bay de Noc School Board has, after serious evaluation of the latest M.E.A. proposal, turned it down unanimously. The action was taken because the M.E.A. proposed package represents approximately 78 per cent of the available money, (state aid and tax dollars)."

Carl Van Remorel, Board president, said the figures released by the M.E.A. were different than those presented to the Board.

The teachers, through their Education Association, said the School Board has rejected its own proposal on which agreement was thought to have been reached July 21.

Was Near Median

The four members of the School Board at that meeting—Van Remorel, William Haindl, Elaine Hartman and Floyd Pomeroy — "signed a statement to the effect that a total package of $239,680 would go to the teachers for salaries, insurance, and extra-curricular activities and substitutes," the teachers reported today.

This would have given a salary schedule with a $6,500 base for the B.A. degree with a 4.5 per cent progressive index peaking in 10 steps at $10,094. The M.A. degree base would have been $7,000 also with a progressive index of 4.5 per cent peaking in 10 steps at $10,871.

The Education Association says that Stupak's "available money" figure does not include approximately $51,000 which is surplus accumulated since the district organized.

"When this sum is added the teachers' proposal comes very close to the state median for teacher salaries of 62.5 per cent," according to the Education Association.

New Offer

Through their Association the teachers advised:

"The Big Bay de Noc School District ranked 46 out of 60 Upper Peninsula school districts for the base salary with a B.A. degree. The school board's new offer of $500 to every teacher would reduce the teachers of the district to the lowest paid in the Upper Peninsula and would not cover cost of living increases and higher taxes."

"The teachers have, by a unanimous vote of those present at the ratification meeting held July 28, agreed that unless a contract is negotiated that brings the district up to Upper Peninsula standards there will be no contract which of course means that the schools will not open in the fall on time."

"The Big Bay de Noc Education Association, hopes that the School Board will come to an agreement soon so that the children of the district will not be delayed in getting their education."

Girl Drowns In 'Sand Sucker' Hole

HOUGHTON LAKE (AP)—A 9-year-old Davison girl, Joy Skellenger, drowned in Houghton Lake Tuesday night after falling into a "sand sucker" hole.

The holes are left by machinery which takes sand from the lake bottom to spread on beaches.

Police said the girl was wading about 120 feet from shore when the accident occurred.

She was the second victim to have drowned after stepping into such a hole in the past two weeks.

Rotarians Stress Service To Youth

The children who are beneficiaries of the Rotary Camp Harstad program were visited by the Rotarians Tuesday noon in an expression of personal interest in the welfare of the youngsters.

Thomas Straebel, Rotary Club president, conducted the luncheon meeting at Camp Harstad on the Ford River shore. The camp for handicapped children is a major service project of the Rotary Club.

One of the guests at the meeting was Shirley Miller, R. N., of Bay de Noc Community College nurse training program, who serves at Camp Harstad two days a week under a cooperative program. Now there are no children at camp in wheel chairs or wearing braces—but they are all "needy children," Wylie pointed out.

The young campers were selected from a list of referrals received from teachers in public and parochial schools and from nurses and health authorities, and they benefit from a program that includes swimming and other healthful recreation. They spend six hours a day at camp, five days a week, for eight weeks.

Besides Wylie, the camp staff includes Mrs. Ann Brazeau, cook, counselors Miss Ann Schmidt, third year, Janice Ferguson and Mike Olson in their first year, plus student nurses and volunteers.

Two student nurses at Camp Harstad on Tuesday were Miss Gaynell Lundeen and Miss Cheryl Coppock, and volunteers were Miss Peggy Fisher and Miss Sherry Peterson.

The Rotary Club will meet next Monday at Marco's for a joint program with the Kiwanis Club.

Student Coming

The Rotary Club's student guest this summer is Uwe Sparenberg, 23, of Ibbenburen, Germany, who will arrive in Escanaba by bus Sunday evening, Aug. 3, at 7:55 o'clock.

Robert Mosenfelder, Rotary international service chairman, invited Rotarians and their wives to join the committee at the bus station in welcoming the young man to Escanaba.

A program of activities is being arranged and the youth will be a guest in the homes of Rotarians—the Mosenfelders, the John Lemmers, the Henry Dubbeldes and the Dr. Robert Rydes.

Sparenberg, a student at the University of Marburg, is sponsored by the Rotary Club in furthering Rotary International's objective of world peace, understanding, and good will.

Chamber Tour Open To Public

George Bathke and Richard Marenger, co-chairman of the Agriculture Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, announced today that members of the general public are invited to join chamber members on a tour of the Michigan State Experimental Station at Chatham Saturday.

A car pool will leave the Chamber Building, 230 Ludington St., Escanaba, at 8:45 a. m. Saturday to join the tour which begins at 10 a. m. at Chatham.

Included on the tour will be visits to the station's dairy farm, forestry, and Christmas tree areas. The group will also be shown a demonstration on various crops and soils.

The experimental station, run by MSU, contains 620 acres, and is located just north of the village of Chatham.

Members of the tour will be served lunch at Camp Shaw, a 4-H youth camp located on the station's grounds. After lunch the tour will visit area dairy and strawberry farms.

Anyone interested in joining the tour is asked to call 786-2192 for further information.

The Escanaba Area Chamber of Commerce today alerted the public to call the chamber to verify the validity of crews selling magazines in the Escanaba area. It is suggested that residents call the chamber office at 786-2192 to check the authenticity of the seller before signing any contracts.

Managers Named For Timber, Inc.

Peter Grieves, Newberry, and William Henricksen, Marquette, have been named general manager and field manager, respectively, of Timber, Inc., heading up an organization designed through study and pilot demonstrations, to gain maximum economic benefits for the district through improved management, harvesting and use of timber resources.

Both men are graduate foresters and have been associated with both private and public phases of the work. Grieves comes to Timber Inc. from the extension service of Michigan State University and prior to that was with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Auburn University, Alabama, as well as having spent some years with a forest development company.

Henricksen was more recently with Royal Oak and prior to that with Cliffs Dow Chemical Co. in its woods procurement department.

To Attend Exposition They already have assumed their duties, and Henricksen this week will attend the Mio Forestry exposition in Lower Michigan. In addition to a showing of the latest in logging equipment, there will be a slide demonstration of safety measures in the woods and details on the safety code for loggers and woods workers. One of the severe conditions under which loggers work is the high rate of insurance for workmen's compensation.

Timber, Inc., is a Michigan-based activity, but is part of the over-all economic assistance program of the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, which finances the project, and is interested in aiding Northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota areas. Findings of the project here are available to all interested persons in the three states and through the Upper Great Lakes unit, will be circulated to all phases of the national industry.

Timber, Inc., will conduct demonstrations of equipment and systems, under conditions that prevail in actual working areas, so that their work and their findings will be practical and objective. Demonstrations will be located at existing operations and conducted long enough to reflect representative seasonal conditions.

The board of directors of Timber, Inc., will make the determinations of projects to be studied and demonstrated. The staff will have the responsibility of conducting the work.

All segments of the woods industry are being encouraged to submit ideas of problems to be studied and range of demonstrations to be undertaken.

Legislators To Start Peninsula Tour Thursday

Industrial and recreational aspects of the Upper Peninsula will get first-hand inspection by about 22 members of the Michigan House of Representatives on a tour starting Thursday at the Straits of Mackinac sponsored by the Upper Michigan Tourist Association.

Harold Vanlerberghe is in charge of local arrangements for the visit of the legislators, most of whom will be accompanied by their wives. The tour will include a stop at Isle Royale National Park as the most distant point.

Assembling at the Straits of Mackinac at 9 a. m. Thursday, they will travel on U. S. 2 to Schoolcraft County where they will inspect the coho planting facilities at Thompson, and then proceed to Fayette State Park for a noon box lunch.

After a brief program there, they will proceed to Gladstone and Escanaba for tours of local industries including new plants and expanded facilities of the Mead Corp., Chicago & North Western Railway, Harnischfeger Corp. and others.

Robert Sayles, Newberry, president of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association, and Ken Dorman, secretary - manager, said the tour is to "sell" the Legislature on the economic importance of the Upper Peninsula and the need for supporting specific projects in the local areas.

From Escanaba the group will travel to Iron Mountain for an overnight stay, thence to the western section of the Peninsula with overnight stops at Houghton, Isle Royale, Marquette, Newberry and Sault Ste. Marie, returning to the Straits on Aug. 7.

The tour is financed by the Upper Michigan Tourist Association to better acquaint the legislators with "the great opportunities existing in the Upper Peninsula."

Heirman said if frosts hold off until the end of September area farmers could still get good silage corn. He added that one bright prospect was that hay was plentiful in the county. "The hay cut at the end of July will have better quality than in previous years," Heirman said.

The director said that grain crops, such as oats and barley, are making good gains and with proper moisture should produce above normal yields.

"The potato crop looks excellent," Heirman said. "We expect Delta County potatoes to be on the market by August 1."

Heirman said that the bean crop has also been slow in starting because of the cool weather, but is now making good progress.

"All in all what started out looking like a dismal growing season is turning into what could be some fine yields for area farmers," Heirman noted.

He said a month of good growing weather can really make a difference in our area of the state.

Gordon Bean Joins State-Wide

Hugh Harris of State Wide Real Estate announced Tuesday that Gordon Bean of Escanaba has joined the firm.

Bean has been a resident of the Escanaba area for 18 years, working eight years as manager of Neisner Bros., six years at Shoppers Town and four years at All Town Distributors.

Bean, Harold Myers and Ted Breitenbach, all of State Wide, received diplomas recently from the Investment Property Course No. 1, a five-day program at the Holiday Inn, Midland. Instructors were Fred Spaude and Walter Leitzke of Menominee and Harris.

There are problems, of course, but not insurmountable obstacles.

First a shopper has to battle for a parking space since lots are filled to capacity. (No auto traffic on Ludington St., remember.)

Then he must push, pull and wriggle through the shoppers who are out in full-force for this popular annual event.

And, after finally working his way up to what he thinks is a bargain table, he discovers at just 9:15 a. m. that the table is already naked and he's staring at the remains of a once battled-over blouse.

His only consolation is that Escanaba's "Miracle Mile" is lined with "Drastically Reduced," "Priced to Go," "Biggest Clearance," and "Bonanza Value" signs. Who can resist?

Each member of the family usually ends up going home with bag after bag of bargains he really needed and also things about which he will ask himself later, "Why in the world did I ever buy that?"

It's great fun, anyway.

Sun Shines On Sidewalk Sale

By SALLY BARRETT

What's a frustrated shopper to do on Sidewalk Sale day?

Who could ever pass up a watering can for 50 cents, throw pillows for 57 cents, lampshades at half price or those 25-cent hotdogs smothered with onions—even if it is only 9 o'clock in the morning?

This is what began at 9 a. m. today and will continue until 9 p. m. in Escanaba. Fortunately, the weather was "on the sunny side of the street."

Escanaba's Sidewalk Day is anticipated by those of all ages.

Kids love the snow cones, hotdogs, balloons and pony rides. Mom gets a thrill when she reaches the "scramble table" or when she tackles the endless racks of clothes. Even dad feels successful when he finds one of those "drastically reduced" garbage cans he's needed but couldn't see paying the full price for before.

Oh, the joy one feels as he battles the bargainers or when he comes face-to-face with Old McDonald, which turns out to be one of those mammoth balloons. The day isn't complete unless a chocolate ice cream cone is spilled down his back.

There are problems, of course, but not insurmountable obstacles.

Six Mutual Funds Want SEC's Budge As Boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission said he would like to become president of six mutual funds if his boss—apparently President Nixon—approved, Senate sources say.

A source close to the Senate Banking and Currency Committee quoted the report Tuesday night from minutes taken when directors of the six mutual funds managed by Investors Diversified Services Inc. met in Minneapolis June 12 to elect SEC Chairman Hamer H. Budge their new president.

Budge and representatives of the funds and IDS were called before the subcommittee today to explore a "possible conflict of interest."

The minutes, as quoted by the committee source, identify George E. MacKinnon, vice-president and general counsel of the funds, as approaching Budge about the job. MacKinnon was confirmed May 1 and sworn in June 14 as a judge on the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

Nominated In April
Nixon nominated him April 23.

Budge, reached at his home in Washington Tuesday night, declined to comment. He insisted in a statement last week he had rejected the offer and had done nothing improper.

MacKinnon was away from his home in Minneapolis and could not be reached.

Nixon was a director of four of the mutual funds from late 1964 until May 1968. He and MacKinnon served in the House together during the mid-1940s and MacKinnon was a U.S. attorney in Minneapolis when Nixon was vice president.

In the last two years of the Eisenhower administration he was a special assistant to William P. Rogers, then attorney general and now secretary of state.

The sources said MacKinnon and Harold Bradford, the 66-year-old president of the six funds, interviewed Budge May 16, between MacKinnon's confirmation and seating.

On May 23 the funds' executive committee adopted a resolution favoring Budge and on June 12 the full board of directors and the separate boards of the six funds voted to elect Budge president subject to his acceptance.

Willing To Accept
It was at the joint meeting that day that the minutes said:

"The chairman inquired of Mr. MacKinnon whether he had heard anything recently from the person chosen to be president. Mr. MacKinnon said that he had talked to him on several occasions, including last evening, and had been informed that he would like to accept the offer of the directors and that it would be entirely in order for the boards of directors in their separate meetings to adopt appropriate resolutions subject, however, to the wishes of his present boss who might want to ask him to remain in his present position for a period of time to make an orderly transmission to his successor."

Budge, a Republican, was appointed to the commission by President Johnson. He was named SEC chairman in February and given a full five-year term on May 28.

Probe

His negotiations with the IDS-controlled funds came at a time when the SEC had been asked by the Banking and Currency Committee to investigate the "face amount certificate" business.

IDS, the largest mutual fund concern in the nation, has 95 per cent of the face amount business. It provides half the company's net annual profit.

A face amount certificate is usually sold at a discount, for less than the face maturity value, and frequently on the installment plan. Many pay less than 4 per cent interest over 20-year or more maturity periods, and the contracts are written so that commissions and service charges are deducted during the early years of the certificate's life.

Death of the deep shaft iron ore mining industry in Iron County represents a crushing blow to the economy of the area.

Loss of the sustaining industry that long provided the financial backbone of the area means that residents must find other sources of revenue or pull up stakes.

What compounds the problem is that many of the miners affected lack skills required in other employment and are in an age bracket that makes retraining difficult.

Development of small industries and further concentration on tourism are the areas most likely to fan the life fires in Iron County.

Although the future is by no means bright, there are many people in the county who express optimism. They feel adjustments can be made in businesses, new outlooks can be cultivated and greater efforts expended in a united approach to financial problems.

One factor that looms of greatest importance is the longstanding friction between east and west sides of the county. The inability to solve mutual problems casts an unhealthy reflection on the county and creates an image that could be extremely discouraging for prospective industrial developers.

Iron County people would do well to examine the example set by the Iron Mountain-Kingsford twin city area following the end of the mining era and the closing of the Ford operations. It was no easy task to recover from these setbacks, but the area has accomplished great things through diversification of small industrial enterprises. Much of the credit for saving the life of the community goes to a few far-thinking, tough-minded individuals who refused to believe the end of Ford was the end of the community.

Wipeout of the deep shaft mines in Iron County was triggered by changes in United States steel-making technology.

The extent of those changes is reflected in the pattern of raw materials being consumed in the production of steel in this country.

Most notable development to take place in recent years has been the beneficiation of low-grade iron ores. The process upgrades the ore by crushing, screening and washing it to obtain a richer, more suitable feed for blast furnaces which have become more efficient by the use of pellets and the injection of fuel oil and natural gas into them.

The continued growth of basic oxygen and electric steelmaking furnaces, whose combined output totaled almost half of all raw steel produced last year, resulted in the increased usage of oxygen, lime and electric power.

Two principal forms of beneficiated ores — known as agglomerated products — are pellets and sinter. Pellets are a manufactured ore product from which many impurities have been removed near the mine and which is then shipped to blast furnaces. Sinter is a caked product usually made from fine ore particles near the blast furnaces.

Last year, United States blast furnaces consumed a total of 102.4 million tons of agglomerated products, a 5.5 million ton gain over 1967. Of the total, 51 million tons were made up of pellets, against 43 million tons a year earlier.

New advances in technology have resulted in many benefits for mankind. But the same strides sometimes leave behind problems which are difficult to solve, as has happened in the case of Iron County.

The question now is what technology can be used to solve the problems another technology created?

Food Sacrifice

A recent dispatch from India, where hunger is a chronic problem, reports that a Hindu spiritual leader intends to destroy several thousand tons of food as part of a religious sacrifice.

Hindu leader Lakshman Chaitanya Maharaja announced he will feed 9,000 tons of food, worth $16 million, to the sacrificial fire. Last year he conducted a similar sacrifice involving $532,800 worth of food.

The purpose, he said, is to "foster universal peace and the welfare and prosperity of the human race."

That, incidentally, is the same purpose which has led the U. S. government to send India vast quantities of wheat and other agricultural products in recent years. Acting out of genuine humanitarian impulse, Americans believed they were bettering the condition of the human race.

Now they may begin to wonder. Indian and American values are apparently so different that even words like "peace" and "welfare" do not mean the same things.

Noting the food sacrifices, Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, asks: "How can U. S. government officials maintain a straight face and call on beleaguered taxpayers to help those who will not only not help themselves, but figuratively slap in the face those who are trying to save them from starvation?" It is a question not easily answered by give-away advocates.

The feed sacrifices, we think, illustrate a fundamental error in American foreign policy. It is the assumption that American values can be exported. It is the somewhat arrogant view that foreigners will want to emulate us.

In point of fact, the proper purpose of foreign policy is neither to remake the world in our own image nor to engage in global philanthropy. Simply stated, it is to protect the national interests of the United States.

Food thrown to the fires in India should convince us that realistic policy deals with the world as it is.

Peninsula Potpourri

Marquette public schools ended fiscal 1968-69 with a balance of $43,877, reports Julius Timani, assistant business manager.

The Soviet Marshals Are Looking To East

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

How much of a chance is President Richard Nixon taking when he stops off in Rumania, the dissatisfied Soviet satellite that has exhibited some sympathy for Red China?

The answer to the question, as it is currently being threshed out by the Kremlinologists, depends on the relative pressures of anti-Maoist and anti-Americanism (or anti-imperialism) as they affect the Soviet military high command.

Radio Liberty's knowledgeable expert, Christian Dueval, notes that the Soviet marshals, writing in various official publications, have been quarreling with each other about the identity of the Soviets' worst enemy.

Last year the marshals were rather well agreed on accepting the Pravda editorial line that Vietnam, the Middle East, the West German "revanchists," and the question of West Berlin, were the overriding issues. The U.S. was considered the evil moving spirit in fomenting troubles all around the great sea-girt area extending from western Europe to Southeast Asia. But the Pravda editorial line omitted direct or indirect tirades against Mao Tse-tung. Lyndon Johnson's Washington was Enemy Number One.

This year Pravda has slacked off on its anti-American tone. A lead editorial of the official Communist Party daily turns to the east to look at the "valiant defenders of our borders on the River Ussuri." The Czech crisis is played down; the Red Chinese are specifically singled out as "enemies of peace."

The new Pravda line has disrupted the unanimity of the Soviet generals. Defense Minister Marshal Grechko, writing in Pravda on the Soviet Victory Day anniversary, has evidently forgotten that his last year's emphasis was harshly anti-American. This year, though he still refers to the West Germans as "neo-Fascists," he concentrates on "the adventurous policy of Mao Tse-tung's group, which has proclaimed chauvinist-hegemonial aspirations and anti-Sovietism as their official political course." There is just one minor anti-American sally in Marshal Grechko's article.

The logical surmise is that the Soviet Defense Minister has been too busy wrestling with the possibility of a preventive war against Red China to bother with the United States.

By contrast, Marshal Zakharov, the Soviet Chief of Staff, writing in Izvestia, remains adamantly anti-American and anti-western. He actually omits the anti-Maoist references that are evidently considered obligatory by the other Soviet military leaders.

A third important Soviet general, Marshal Yakubovsky, the Commander-in-Chief of the Warsaw Pact, has taken a mixed position. He attacks "imperialism" and NATO, but with less feeling than in his remarks of a year ago. Despite the fact that the safety of the East European satellites is his particular concern, it is Red China that receives the full thrust of his invective. He threatens the Maoists directly if they should again encroach on the "holy Soviet earth." Other generals echo Grechko and Yakubovsky.

With a majority of the Soviet generals turning their eyes toward the Soviet-Red Chinese border, it is hardly likely that Comrades Brezhnev and Kosygin are plotting anything that might strike at Rumania while President Nixon is in Bucharest.

The Russians have always been fearful of simultaneous trouble on two fronts. The words of Marshal Grechko and Marshal Yakubovsky indicate that the Kremlin considers it has made its western front reasonably secure by suppressing the liberal uprising in Czechoslovakia, and can now turn its attention to the problem of Mao Tse-tung.

Coincidental with the Grechko - Yakubovsky pronouncements, Brezhnev has launched an intensified campaign against "nationalism" in the Soviet central Asian republics. There have been indoctrination meetings in Tashkent and at Alma-Ata. The Soviets want no deflection of the loyalty of Uzbeks and Mongols and other central Asian minorities while they are menaced by the Red Chinese.

If, as reported from various sources, the Soviets have had to close their Trans-Siberian Railroad to civilian traffic for weeks on end in order to move soldiers into position to face Mao Tse-tung in the Far East, it stands to reason that Nixon's visit to Rumania will invite no reprisals, even though Rumania has been somewhat pro-Mao. Indeed, it would not be surprising if Moscow invited Nixon to make a sidestep from Bucharest to the Kremlin in hopes of neutralizing the U.S. in case of open Soviet war on Red China.

Girls Wearing Pink Get Luncheon Dates

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

One ironic fact about the national inflation is that it helps some people's health. They are now no longer able to afford or do things that are bad for them anyway.

Girls who wear pink dresses to the office during summer months get the most luncheon invitations. Try this, girls, and see for yourselves.

It isn't necessary to perform great deeds in order to win attention. Small deeds will gain you a local fame, too—even if all you do is to set out to become the first guy in your neighborhood to learn Esperanto after the age of 50.

Celebrities often bore us when they insist upon inflicting their views on us at great length, but nobody is too busy to stop and enjoy watching a small child pick its nose.

In that case, West—whose original distribution must have consisted of two spades, six hearts, three diamonds and two clubs—would be forced to return a heart, permitting South to discard his club loser as he ruffed the return in dummy.

In other words, South may lose the battle for the queen if he takes the finesse, but he is sure to win the war.

Woes is that, as soon as we try to brag about them in public, someone always tops us with woes that are worse. For example, as soon as you complain about having to wear some new bifocals, you run into half a dozen fellows who say they've had to put up with trifocals for years.

The average American now discards about a ton of junk a year. It seems that the less we do with our civilization the more debris it produces to be thrown away.

Are you one of those people who feel they have a squeamish stomach? You are probably only kidding yourself because you have spent your life pampering your appetite. The way to test the real condition of your stomach is to go without meals for two days. Then if you don't snap at the chance to gulp down a plate of stale mutton, overdone cabbage and raw turnip, there really may be something wrong with you.

Never marry a girl who understands you thoroughly. After the wedding, she won't.

A man is pretty safe in life as long as he knows his faults and has at least two friends who think they can discern some virtues in him.

A husband who gives up smoking drums his fingers incessantly on the dinner table. A wife who gives up smoking curls her hair in her finger incessantly—as if she were a little girl again—and complains about her husband for drumming his fingers incessantly on the table.

It is not actually against the law to seek a new kind of fun after 40, but as the old saying goes, it might as well be.

Opening lead—king of hearts.

One of declarer's most frequent problems is whether to finesse or play for the drop when he is missing four to the queen of a suit. There is ordinarily such a slight mathematical advantage in favor of playing for the drop that almost any clue which indicates otherwise should persuade declarer to finesse instead.

Here is an excellent example of declarer's proper approach to the play in a case where he can see that the fate of the hand depends on how he handles the trumps.

West cashes the K-A of hearts and continues with the ten, which South ruffs as East discards a diamond. Declarer cashes the ace of spades, both defenders following low, but since he is not yet ready for the crucial trump decision, he temporarily shifts his attention elsewhere to learn more about the opponents' distribution.

He leads a club to the king, a diamond to the king, a club to the ace, followed by a diamond to the ace. When he now ruffs a diamond in dummy and leads the jack of spades, East following low, declarer comes face to face with the decision of whether to finesse.

South still does not know where the queen is located, but, peculiarly enough, he can guarantee ten tricks by taking a finesse.

In the actual hand the finesse succeeds and South winds up making the contract, losing two hearts and a club, but the outcome would have been exactly the same had the finesse lost to the queen.

In that case, West—whose original distribution must have consisted of two spades, six hearts, three diamonds and two clubs—would be forced to return a heart, permitting South to discard his club loser as he ruffed the return in dummy.

In other words, South may lose the battle for the queen if he takes the finesse, but he is sure to win the war.

Dear Ann Landers: I am expecting our first baby in about seven weeks. We waited a long time for this child and I want to do everything just right. Now a dark cloud is hovering over my shoulder. My mother-in-law assumes that I would be happy to have her move in for a few weeks and help with the baby when we come home from the hospital.

It's nice of her to offer but I don't want her. The thought of having my mother-in-law "in charge" is making a nervous wreck out of me. I don't consider getting up during the night a hardship. It will be a pleasure. I want to change my baby's diapers, give him his bottle, feed him and bathe him. This is the joy of being a new mother and I don't want to share it.

Dear Ann Landers: You often advise women who write about having their faces lifted, "Go ahead and do it if you want to." I'd like to give you another side of the story.

My grandmother had her face lifted eight months ago and it is ruining her life. She wasn't very pretty to begin with, but she had a fairly good figure and could afford expensive clothes. Grandma died three years ago. Grandma got over her grief in record time and started to look for a man. She attracted mostly bums who were after her money.

And old bums, at that. A friend suggested that Grandma get her face lifted. She did it and now she is attracting young bums. Furthermore she is making a fool of herself acting like a spring chicken. My mother thinks may be the surgeon's knife slipped and damaged her brain.

So please don't encourage women to have their faces lifted. Everyone liked Grandma better the way she was.—Sad Boy Of 15

Woman Told: Puma Must Go

SELDEN, N.Y. (AP) — Owning a pet puma in a basement apartment of a metropolitan area can present numerous problems—including an eviction notice.

Mrs. Lori Polizzano, 18, a petite 112-pound housewife, owns such an animal, a feline that grows to be 6 feet long and weighs around 150 pounds.

"Everything was okay until the landlord asked us to move," Lori said, recalling the Brooklyn basement apartment to which she first brought the auburn-colored cat.

"Puss Puss" was sunbathing on a window sill, she explained, when the gardeners spotted the cat.

"They ran off screaming, 'There's a lion in that house,'" she said.

When Lori arrived home that day she was met by a crowd of spectators and an irate landlord who ordered her to move. It was then the Polizzanos learned about the wild animal law prohibiting such animals as pets in New York City.

Rather than give up the 8-month-old cat they moved to another basement in the home of a friend in Selden far outside the city limits on Long Island.

Police already have called on Lori in answer to complaints by neighbors, but Lori is adamant—the cat stays.

Now the house where the Polizzanos are staying is up for sale and Lori reluctantly has advertised the puma for sale for $700.

Lift Quarantine

LANSING (AP) — The head of the Animal Health Division of the State Department of Agriculture, said Tuesday the quarantine on hogs in the Cass County area could be lifted next week.

The quarantine was put into effect after hog cholera was diagnosed and more than 1,800 hogs had to be destroyed near Jones in Cass County.

Administration Backs Changes In Gun Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — A parliamentary gambit, Nixon administration support and crucial shifts in the Senate have given an added push to attempts to rip some key provisions out of last year's Gun Control Act.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, announced he had administration backing as he reintroduced a bill Tuesday to remove restrictions covering 90 per cent of the ammunition sold in this country.

Bennett's bill was bolstered by eight cosponsors whose positions represent a change from last year, when they or their predecessors voted with the 41-36 majority in beating back an attempt to exempt shotgun, rifle and 22-caliber rimfire ammunition from the act.

The law prohibits a person from buying, either in person or through the mails, any guns or ammunition outside the state in which he lives.

Buyer Information

In addition to exempting the ammunition from the law, Bennett's bill would also specify—and in effect cut back—the information required of gun and ammunition buyers.

Bennett has contended requirements by the Internal Revenue Service—which administers the 1968 law—to have buyers provide physical descriptions, weapon caliber and serial number amount to "back door registration."

Administration spokesmen from Treasury, the Justice Department and Internal Revenue Service testified last week against further gun restrictions but stopped short of recommending any deletions from the existing act.

The spokesmen argued for state initiative in gun control and urged the present federal law be given time, to see how it works.

Departure

The administration position represents a departure from the policy of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, who complained on signing the law that it wasn't strong enough.

Johnson's Justice Department also supported inclusion of shotgun, rifle and 22 rimfire ammunition, which the department estimated accounts for 90 per cent of ammo sales.

Bennett's old bill, and companion measures in the House, were referred to the House Judiciary Committee chaired by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee headed by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.

Bennett's new attempt involves bypassing those panels.

"It has been made quite clear to me that the House Judiciary Committee has no intention of considering and reporting any firearms or ammunition legislation in the 91st Congress," said Bennett.

The new bill, rewritten to amend a different section of the law yet accomplish the same purpose, would go to the Senate Finance Committee, chaired by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., and the House Ways and Means Committee, chaired by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark.

Funeral Today For Slain Coed

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Hurriedly summoned from their vacations, a minister and six recent classmates join in funeral services today for Karen Sue Beineman, a petite college coed brutally slain only a month after receiving her high school diploma.

The Rev. Edwin J. Arnold, pastor of the Second Congregational Church, conducts services for the 18-year-old Eastern Michigan University coed. Her killing was the seventh in a string of unsolved murders in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area.

The Rev. Mr. Arnold said he planned to say during a short meditation at the services that "human society must decide whether we need to spend more money on eradicating those factors which have produced this kind of tragedy."

He called for such things as the "study and cure of the mental illness which must have led to this tragedy."

The family minister was to be joined in the services by the Rev. Robert Lignell, pastor of Faith Lutheran Church and longtime friend of the slain coed's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland R. Beineman.

A sealed light bronze casket is to bear the body of the 5-foot-1, 96-pound girl. A floral blanket from her parents and two elder sisters plus a heart formed of flowers sent by her grandmother were to be on the casket.

Floral tributes to the girl jammed a room at a Grand Rapids funeral home before the services.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

PAUL M. POWERS, 18, of North Andover, Mass., was reported in good condition today at a Denver hospital where plastic surgeons used a 3 by 5 inch skin graft to repair wounds inflicted by a bear. The bear bit off part of the boy's scalp while Powers and 30 other Boy Scouts camped near Cimarron, N. M. Doctors expect to move the youth to Massachusetts in about a week. (AP Wirephoto)

Sleepy Students May Use Tapes

DETROIT (AP) — Technological advances from the U.S. space program have given new help to Wayne State University students who chronically sleep through lectures.

A new facility at WSU allows students to go to 159 push-button dial stations around the Detroit campus to tune in instantly to any of 134 pre-taped lesson programs.

WSU students can now catch up on missed lectures, cram for exams or enrich normal study programs merely by pushing buttons around the 180-acre campus. The taped lessons are changed periodically as courses at the university progress.

The dialing system — known as the Tele-Norm Electronic Dial Access Information Retrieval System—is made up of microcircuits and reel relay switching and is designed to carry out literally billions of operations. The circuits are a product of space-age technology.

Student listening booths with headsets and push-button dial units are linked by sophisticated switching equipment to 57 automatic audio tape decks. The network is connected by leased telephone lines.

Six stations are in classrooms, where instructors can dial selected instructional materials and feed them over a public address system to hundreds of students. The other 153 push-button panels are in student booths.

WSU is considering long range plans for adding 2,000 student booths and an appropriate number of tape decks to the system, according to Dr. Thomas W. Roberts Jr., director of the project. A study is now under way to determine the feasibility of having the tapes played into regular telephone lines so that students could dial a lecture from their homes in the Detroit area.

The Tele-Norm system costs around $124,000. Students using the system before were generally enthusiastic, project spokesmen said, and many claimed better learning and retention because of the direct individual impact.

14 TV Series To Star Blacks

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fourteen series in the new television season will have blacks in starring or leading roles.

The number is slightly ahead of last season. Five series in which blacks played roles were canceled and five were added. In addition, football star Rosey Grier joins the cast of "Daniel Boone."

But, says a report by two Michigan State University researchers, the roles, dress and language of blacks on television—at least in past seasons—still are very white.

Dr. Bradley Greenberg, associate professor of communications, and Joseph Dominick, graduate assistant, compared two average weeks of viewing in the 1967-68 and 1968-69 seasons.

The researchers also found that the percentage of blacks playing major roles remained the same both seasons. However, the number of black actors playing "second bananas" to white heroes increased in the latest season.

Concludes the MSU researchers: "Television feels a need to project black images, but really doesn't know how."

The networks aren't likely to offer any realistic portrayals of black roles soon. Television has never been one to pioneer, and after the uproar over "violence and sex" the industry is offering as low a profile as possible in all areas in the coming season.

Besides, it is doubtful that blacks are any more anxious to see a situation comedy about the ghetto than whites are to see the poverty of Appalachia in "The Beverly Hillsbillies."

HUD Hears Appeal For Rapid Transit Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mayors and transit experts from the nation's traffic-choked cities appealed today for a $10 billion fund to finance vast new rail and bus systems.

Witnesses before the Senate subcommittee on housing and urban affairs depicted urban strangulation caused by increasing numbers of private autos which pollute the air and clog the streets.

Pittsburgh Mayor Joseph M. Barr, representing the National League of Cities and the Conference of Mayors, testified in support of a bill by Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., to establish a national trust fund for mass transit similar to the one which financed the Interstate Highway System.

"We urge this committee to provide a 10-year program calling for $10 billion," said Barr.

"Unless we are prepared to devote this magnitude of public investments in transit systems, we will never resolve the transportation crisis in our cities."

B. R. Stokes, head of the San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BART), said the inflationary spiral would prohibit all metropolitan areas from attempting rapid rail systems on their own.

Inflation raised the BART monorail system from a projected $1 billion cost to $1.3 billion, he said.

"We know now that we were naive 10 years ago to think that we could go it alone without state or federal support. We have both kinds of support now, but we badly need further help," he said.

D. J. Giacomini, chairman of the American Transit Corporation, said his company operates private transit systems in 14 states but has had to discontinue service in Pensacola, Fla., and Cape Girardeau, Mo., and plans to stop operations in nearly 10 more.

"The inflationary period we have experienced in the past few years... coupled with our continuing loss of patronage, has convinced us that we are in a serious and precarious financial position," he said.

"It is only a question of time—a short time—until the private company can no longer operate under the present circumstances."

Giacomini said without assistance such as proposed in the Williams bill, private enterprise will soon end in the transit industry.

Smoking Remains Health Hazard

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Cigarette smoking continues to be confirmed as a serious health hazard to the people of this country, one which is the cause of much unnecessary disease and death."

That's how Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert H. Finch introduced

Monday the Public Health Service's third report on smoking.

The 123-page document cited new links with disease, summarized previous findings, and added "no substantial negative evidence has appeared which refutes these judgments."

New evidence was uncovered connecting cigarette smoking and heart attacks, cancer of the throat, emphysema, non-cancerous mouth disorders, pregnancy troubles.

Cigars and pipes continued to be generally absolved. Charcoal filters, in the words of a doctor who worked on that section of the report are ineffective and "not worth a damn."

The report was required under a 1965 law which required the health warning on cigarette packages while banning further government regulation until July 1 this year.

The House voted last month to continue this ban for another six years while requiring a slightly stiffer warning. The vote was considered a victory for the tobacco industry. The Senate has yet to act on the measure.

140-Year Prison Sentence Given

CHICAGO (AP) — Dennis Pearson, 26, of Battle Creek, Mich., was sentenced Tuesday to serve a maximum of 140 years in prison for the kidnapping, rape and attempted murder of Mrs. Sally Heaton, 31, of Mattawan, Mich., Oct. 23.

Judge Philip Romiti of Circuit Court imposed four sentences on Pearson. They were two 100 to 125 year terms for kidnapping and rape and a 5 to 10 year term for auto theft, all to be served concurrently.

A 10-15 year term was also imposed for attempted murder. It was to be served consecutively with the others.

Mrs. Heaton was found by a motorist in a field, near a toll road northwest of Chicago, shot in the right hand, the neck and twice in the head.

Later, she identified Pearson and Nelson Eddie Weaver, 28, as the men who raped her, shot her, buried her under hay and fled in her car.

Weaver was sentenced July 10 by Judge Romiti to serve two 100 to 150 year terms for rape and kidnapping. Weaver received the same sentences as Pearson on the other charges.

Detroit Police Nab 4th Escapee

DETROIT (AP) — The last of four convicted bank robbers who escaped from a prisoner van in the basement of the Federal Courthouse in Detroit has been recaptured, federal officials revealed Tuesday.

Clifford Jessie Jackson, 23, was caught Sunday by Detroit police while riding in a car with four other persons on the Fisher Freeway, the agent in charge of the FBI office, Paul Stoddard, said.

The other three men who escaped in the early morning in downtown Detroit last Thursday were caught quickly. Only Jackson managed to escape in the crowd.

IN THE WAY

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA (AP) — A woman doctor reports she was driving in the city when she saw a woman lying on the pavement near an intersection. She stopped her car and asked a policeman: "Can I help? I'm a doctor."

"That won't be necessary," he replied. "We've already sent for an ambulance."

Then a second cop told her "You can't stop here anyway."

Cyclists Must Wear Helmets

LANSING (AP) — Motorcycle riders must wear their crash helmets starting Sept. 1 under terms of a bill signed into law by Gov. William Milliken.

Because of a flaw in the previous law, motorcyclists have been able to go without the helmets as long as they were carried on the vehicle.

"They will just have to move it from the handlebar to the head—and that's not a long way," commented Rep. Loren Anderson, R-Pontiac, sponsor of the measure.

Anderson said that nurses in intensive care units of hospitals he has visited have complained they had more work than they could handle because of lack of a law requiring the safety helmets.

State Police and other law enforcement officials also had urged passage of the law to cut down on head injuries resulting from motorcycle crashes.

Motorbikes Too

The crash helmet law will apply to motorbikes as well as motorcycles. It will include passengers as well as drivers.

The type of helmet used must be approved by State Police.

The measure was among several bills signed into law by Milliken Tuesday.

Appropriations bills signed allocate $167.6 million to the Department of Mental Health, $16.1 million to the Department of Natural Resources and $7.47 million to the Department of Agriculture.

Among other bills signed were ones to:

—Allow a municipality to issue bonds for capital improvements and pledge deferred income from the sale of other capital assets for payments of interest and principal on the bonds.

—Extend coverage of the one-day fishing license to include all trout and salmon instead of just lake trout and salmon.

Gill Net Fees

—Provide for the use of metal seals on ballot boxes rather than padlocks to increase security.

—Eliminate license fees for gill netting and allow gill netting under rules established by the director of the Natural Resources Department.

—Authorize the State Highway Commission to contract with municipalities, as well as county road commission, township boards and private persons as at present allowed, for construction, improvement and maintenance of state highways.

—Increase from $500,000 to $600,000 the limit a city, in which a pari-mutuel track is located, can receive from racing license fees. The new law will permit the Michigan State Fair to receive a portion of a harness racing revenue fund, as well as the Upper Peninsula State Fair, county fairs and 4-H fairs, which now receive portions of the fund.

Bonds Set For U.P. Escapees

CHICAGO (AP) — Three Michigan men who allegedly kidnapped a guard during their escape from a Wisconsin jail Wednesday appeared before a U.S. Commissioner Tuesday and their bonds were set at $150,000 each.

Commissioner James T. Balog, who refused to set bonds earlier, said he was setting the bond because of a Supreme Court decision which held the death penalty in kidnap cases was unconstitutional when its imposition depended on whether the defendants chose a bench or jury trial.

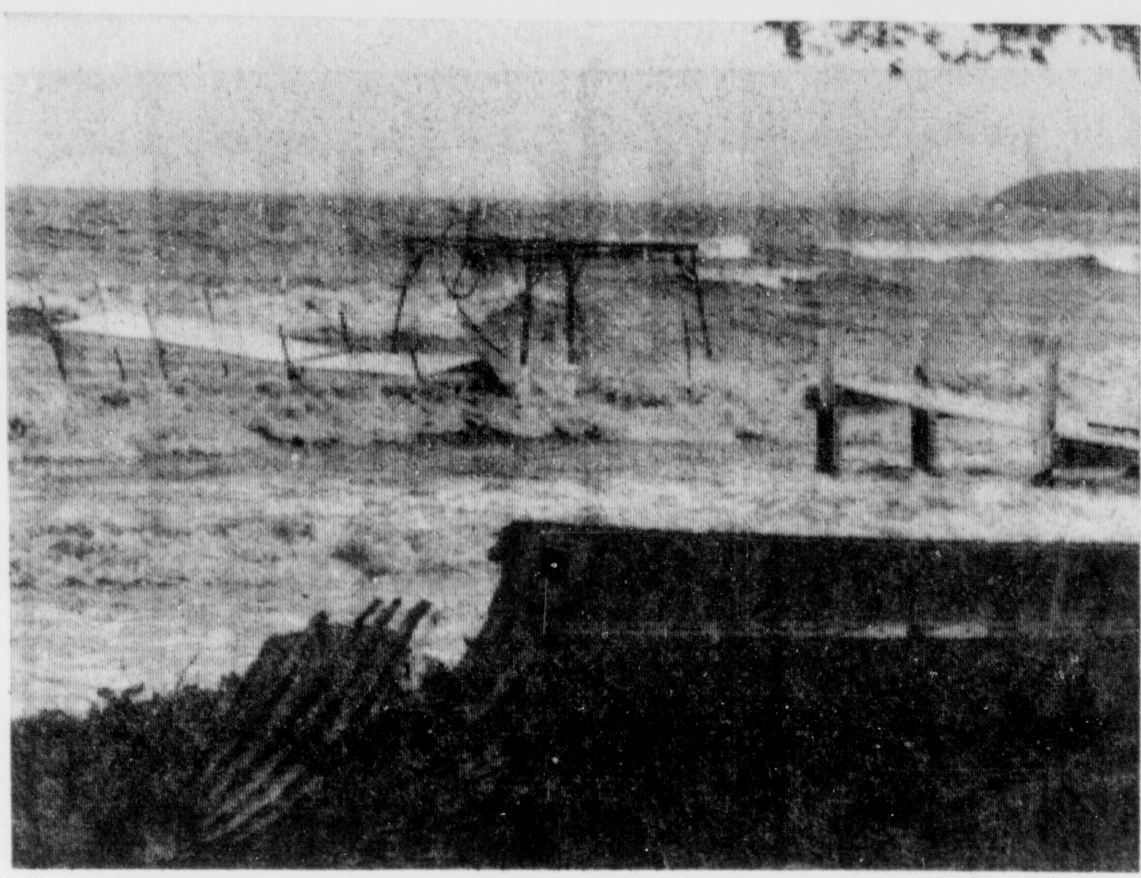

Balog also continued the case of William Edinger, 24, of Flint, Mich.; Jerry O'Day, 23, of Ypsilanti, Mich.; and Donald McBride, 19, of Monroe, Mich.

Guards at the Cook County Jail found a three-inch knife hidden in O'Day's shoe as they were making a routine search of the prisoners before taking them to appear before Balog.

Their case was continued to Aug. 1 to allow time for appropriate papers to arrive from Milwaukee, Balog said.

The three men broke out of the Sheboygan County Jail and took guard Charles Pierce, 25, with them. They were spotted in Sycamore, Ill., and Edinger and O'Day were rounded in a cornfield and captured after police maintained an eight-hour vigil.

McBride was captured by state police 100 miles south of Sycamore after a long chase. The three men are charged with kidnapping, escape and car theft.

U.S., Britain Happy Over Surplus Funds

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Perhaps it has never happened to you, but in your dreams at least you can imagine how it feels to be told by your bank that you really have $100 more than you realized in your checking account.

Something of the sort has been the good fortune of both the United States and Britain this month. And in both instances the discoveries came when the atmosphere was bleak indeed.

Nothing, that is, concerned the Nixon administration more than achieving its widely publicized goal of producing a budget surplus. It appeared nip and tuck, for the apparent surplus was less than $1 billion, a paltry sum.

Now the Treasury has discovered that, unexpectedly, it has collected $2.8 billion more in personal income taxes than was foreseen as recently as last April, pushing the budget surplus to well over $3 billion, a respectable figure.

Good Fortune

Britain found its good fortune in underestimating its exports, one of the critical areas of its economy. And compounding the good fortune was the fact that the same error has been made every year since 1964.

As many Americans and all Britishers realize, that nation's economy has been in the doldrums, one of the reasons—or effects—being that exports have not been strong enough to produce an inflow of cash.

The Board of Trade made a mighty contribution to rectifying that poor situation earlier this month when it announced that it had been underestimating these exports by between 2 and 3 per cent.

Certainly this isn't going to correct the imbalances in the British economy, but it does mean that the country was better off by between $24 million and $36 million a year since 1964. And it provokes interesting speculation.

Did Britain act too hastily in reducing the stated value of the pound sterling from $2.80 to $2.40? One of the reasons for so doing was the distressing figures that showed big imports and small exports.

More Impact

It is unlikely that the errors would have meant the difference between a strong pound and a weak pound. But in some monthly reports the errors could have meant the difference between a poor export month and a terrible one.

Equally interesting is the speculation on the U.S. Treasury's error. If nearly $3 billion more than was expected was taken out of the hands of American consumers, why in the world didn't this have more of an impact?

In other words, why wasn't the decreased spending power of Americans more obvious in reduced sales of, let us say, automobiles and mutual funds and clothing, and in lower expenditures for travel and vacations?

The explanations are perhaps as common as errors. One reason, it is safe to say, is that incomes also were a bit higher than forecast, and higher incomes sometimes mean higher taxes. Another is that savings were dipped into.

Other Errors

But an other unprofessional explanation of why taxpayers can part with their cash and still continue to spend, is that errors were made on the other side of the ledger also.

That is, while the government was siphoning money from taxpayers it was leaking and spilling an awful lot of it back into the economy; in the form of unexpectedly high defense expenditures, for example.

Note that on the same day as the government announced the budget surplus, the Pentagon conceded that it will have paid out hundreds of thousands of dollars more than was anticipated for the C5A air transport.

That's the kind—although not the size—of error ordinary citizens are used to hearing about, both from their government and from their bank.

Trial On Patent Infringement

KALAMAZOO (AP) — A 6½-year-old patent infringement case came up for trial here today before U.S. District Judge W. Wallace Kent.

The argument is over four patents dealing with insecticide spray equipment for orchards. Two giant conglomerate companies are involved.

The FMC Corp., of San Jose, Calif., is the plaintiff. FMC's John Beam division of Lansing manufactures numerous lines of specialized farm implements, including orchard sprayers.

FMC claims that Universal American Corp. infringed on FMC's patents in making and selling "Hardie" brand orchard sprayers.

Universal American's American Pulley division manufactures sprayers in Philadelphia, Pa. The parent company is another conglomerate, Gulf & Western Inc., New York City.

FMC is asking for a permanent injunction to prevent what it says would be further patent infringements.

If Kent finds infringement took place, he then can grant FMC's request for an accounting and award of damages.

Eastern Mich. Losing Prospective Students

YPSILANTI (AP) — Since discovery of the body of the seventh young woman brutally slain in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area, a dozen prospective students have changed their minds about attending Eastern Michigan University.

At the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, parents of one prospective freshman decided to withdraw their daughter and a father from New York told officials he is inclined to keep his sophomore daughter out of school until "this thing blows over," an admissions official said.

"During the last month or so I've had something like 10 calls from newspapers, wire services and so on, but only three specific cases where parents have called to talk with me about this," said Clyde Vroman, Michigan's director of admissions.

Remain Calm

"This is the time to remain calm while exercising the greatest possible caution," Vroman said. "Naturally there's a serious concern that we can't catch this maniac."

The latest victim, Karen Sue Beineman, 18, had attended EMU just four weeks when she was last seen riding away from a wig shop behind a young man on a motorcycle. Announcement that her battered body had been found Saturday was made early Sunday.

Three girls who lived in Downing Hall along with the freshman from Grand Rapids, moved out Monday.

Since Monday 12 prospective EMU students who had made a campus visit notified the university they had changed their minds. Some were men, however, an official said.

"This does not represent a panic situation by any means," said Ray Loeschner, Eastern's vice president for administrative affairs. "We feel this figure is insignificant and is not really an accurate way of knowing the true feelings of people."

Anxiety

He said nearly 2,200 cash deposits have been received and that these represent firm commitments to attend.

Loeschner pointed out there are always a number of prospective students withdrawing for many reasons. But he conceded that actions of some of the 12 were undoubtedly motivated by the anxiety over the murders.

Of the seven victims, three were enrolled at Eastern. A 16-year-old high school dropout from Romulus often visited the college's student union and a 13-year-old victim lived with her mother in an apartment building near the campus which housed many Eastern students.

The two remaining victims attended the University of Michigan.

Eastern's enrollment will reach about 19,000 this fall, including graduate students and officials say there is a long waiting list to make a drop in expected enrollment virtually impossible.

Waiting List

Michigan's Vroman declined to estimate this fall's enrollment but said it would be greater than last year's 32,000 graduates and undergraduates. He said the freshman class will be about 4,600 as it has been the last few years.

"We will have a full quota of all the students we have room for," Vroman said. "There is a waiting list all the time. We can make some student happy by giving him that place (created by a withdrawal)."

"The fundamental issue for a family to decide," Vroman said, "is if they consider the present situation so disturbing that they're willing to stop their child's education for what they think is a safer environment for her."

"The real antidote to this thing, aside from the obvious one of catching the killer, is that everyone use extreme caution in exposing herself to the attacks of these people or that person," he said.

BIDS WANTED

The Board of Education of the Escanaba Area Public Schools will receive sealed bids no later than 4:00 p. m. August 8, 1969 on approximately 50,000 gallons of gasoline, said bids to be delivered to the Business Office 1219 No. 19th, Escanaba. Bidders' proposal sheets may be obtained from the Director of Transportation, 2325 6th Ave. No., Escanaba. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Aircraft Engine Reduces Pollution

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A modified aircraft engine is to be used to reduce air pollution instead of adding to it.

Allison Division of General Motors announced Tuesday that its Model 501 gas turbine engine will be installed at a San Diego, Calif., city sewage plant early next year.

"It will serve two functions," said Reuben R. Jensen, Allison general manager. "By burning odorless gases given off during the processing of sewage, it will neutralize the odor. Using the gases as fuel, it will generate power for the San Diego Gas and Electric Co."

"In essence," Jensen said, "the turbine will take the undesirable element of air pollution and convert it to power for the community. This generator set will represent the first time that an aircraft-type turbine has been used in the fight against air pollution."

Machine Perfect Bank Teller

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Enter the perfect bank teller. No delays. No short changing. No overpaying. No chit-chat. No banker's hours.

It's the Sumitomo Bank's Bankomat, a 24-hour-a-day money machine.

Push in your cash card. A door swings open. Type your code number on a keyboard inside. Name an amount—one to five $20 bills. The money slips out through a slot.

If there not enough money in your Sumitomo checking account, or if you use the wrong number, or if you have used the machine in the past 24 hours, the Bankomat swallows your card. You have to go to the bank to reclaim it.

"This is the only machine of its kind," a bank official says.

Since the machine was loaded with $10,000 two weeks ago, neither it nor the few selected card-carrying customers have made a mistake, the bank says.

Await Owner Of Tall Weed

DETROIT (AP) — Police have confiscated the tallest marijuana plant they say they've ever seen in Detroit—seven feet—and left a note for its vacationing owner "to talk them on his return" to talk about the flowers in your backyard.

The seven-foot plant was discovered growing alongside a driveway along with other stalks of the weed.

Police said the plant's size attracted the attention of a tipster who recognized the plant, which would yield at least a pound when cut and dried.

Police are withholding the homeowner's name and address until they hear his explanation.

Egyptian Air Force Challenge A Failure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rebuilt Egyptian air force's first attempt to challenge Israeli air superiority since the Middle East war two years ago has failed, U.S. analysts say.

As a result, analysts say they believe the United Arab Republic lacks the air power necessary to support a major ground attack across the Suez Canal into the Sinai.

Instead, military experts forecast the UAR will concentrate in the months ahead on intensified local attacks on Israeli positions along the Suez Canal and on low level, hit-and-run air strikes with shallow penetration of Israeli air space. This is seen as the significance of about two weeks of heavy air fighting in the Suez Canal area—fighting accompanied by new threats by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Re-equipped

In substance, the U.S. experts feel the Russians have succeeded in re-equipping the shattered Egyptian air force and training substantial numbers of new pilots who, however, still fall short of matching the Israeli air force in combat.

The U.S. assessments, gathered from a variety of sources, coincide with the judgments expressed by Israeli military officers stationed here. Egyptian military sources were not available and Syrian spokesmen refused to discuss military matters.

Surveying the outcome of recent air combat between the key Middle Eastern adversaries—the Israelis and the Egyptians—one U.S. general said:

"The Egyptians obviously don't think they are strong enough to launch any major ground assault.

"I can't conceive that they would dare cross the canal in force unless they had at least an even break in the air, which they don't have."

Retrain Troops

The Russians have spent an estimated $2 billion since the summer of 1967 to retrain the Arab armies and air forces, particularly the UAR and Syrian military establishments, and to retrain troops and officer corps.

According to the latest intelligence information, the Arab countries outnumber the Israelis in military aircraft by 1,000 to about 350, in tanks about 2,500 to 1,000, and in men under arms about 445,000 to some 80,000. However, Israel can mobilize its reservists in 72 hours and raise its forces to about 275,000.

The Russians have provided the UAR air force with more SU7 ground attack planes than they had before the six-day war, and this is considered important in battlefield support of infantry and armor.

The bulk of the Egyptian fighter force of some 330 planes include the well regarded MIG21 and SU7.

On the other side of Israel, the Syrian air force has some 150 to 200 jet fighters, most of them new, but Syrian pilots are considered decidedly second rate. The Jordanian air force of some 30 planes is considered of no military consequence.

Get 100 Sky Hawks

Other Arab countries—Lebanon, Iraq and Saudi Arabia—do not figure importantly at this time in the air equation as it relates to the peace and war prospects in the Middle East.

The Israeli air force numbers some 285 fighters, light bombers, and fighter bombers, most of them of French manufacture. France refuses to ship replacement planes or additional planes to Israel.

But Israel is in the process of receiving 100 U.S. A4 Sky Hawk fighter bombers, and late this year the United States will send the first of 50 F4 Phantom jets, similar to the best fighters in the U.S. Air Force and Navy.

your generation and which we all admire — don't take chances."

Kelley also had this message he said was directed to all the people of Washtenaw County and southeastern Michigan.

"Keep your eyes and ears open. Be sure to alert law enforcement agencies to any suspicious developments. But keep your perspective. What is needed is citizen concern and cooperation—not panic."

The governor and Kelley said they were requesting FBI help because "there is cause to believe that each of these victims was unlawfully seized and carried away and held for a period in excess of 24 hours, thereby creating a presumption that these persons had been transported in interstate commerce in violation of the kidnap law."

"There also is cause to believe that such persons were injured, threatened and intimidated in the free exercise of rights and privileges secured to them by the constitution and the laws of the United States in violation of the Civil Rights Act."

Mars Pictures

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC will televise pictures of Mars by the Mariner 6 at 9:10 p.m. and 10:57 p.m. EDT today, the network announced.

NBC and CBS did not immediately announce times of their broadcasts.

The Egyptians repositioned some 30 surface-to-air missile sites, mainly to defend Cairo and the Nile Delta, but also to screen approaches along the Suez Canal. Backing up these missile sites are some 30 improved radar installations.

Build Shelters

Sources said the Egyptians counted on these defenses, plus better fighters to keep out air attackers, but the Israelis got through in the recent fighting.

Neither American nor Israeli sources consider there is much danger of any serious Egyptian bombing raids against Israeli cities.

The Israelis are concerned about additional arms they say the Russians have agreed to send Nasser as a result of the Egyptian president's visit to Moscow last fall. The Israelis speak about possibly 100 to 200 more planes for the UAR, 500 more artillery pieces and 600 more tanks.

The Egyptians have done one thing which should save them from the total knockout that marked the beginning of the lightning war in June 1967: They built shelters for most of their planes on many airfields constructed in the last two years.

No More Peace Concessions Declares Nixon

presidential plane and was whisked back to the palace from where he slipped away early in the day to begin his secrecy-shrouded trip. He will leave Thailand Thursday to continue his round-the-world trip.

In Di An, he pictured the war as worthwhile—even as he called it the most controversial in American history—because, he said, it may lead to the establishment of an enduring peace in Asia.

Far As We Go

While meeting Thieu earlier at Saigon's Independence Palace, Nixon issued a statement reciting conciliatory moves and proposals made by Washington and Saigon in an effort to get the Paris peace talks off dead center.

"We have gone as far as we can or should go in opening the doors to negotiations which will bring peace," he said. "It is now time for the other side to sit down with us and talk seriously about ways to stop the killing . . ."

Later when Nixon and Thieu made remarks before television cameras and radio microphones on the steps of Saigon's equivalent of the White House, the U.S. president said it is clear to all the world "which side has gone the extra mile" in an attempt to promote peace.

"Now it is time for the other side to respond," he added, with Thieu at his side.

Nixon said the United States and South Vietnam have made a peace offer "which is as generous as any ever made in the history of warfare."

Reconciliation

"It is a peace of reconciliation that is offered," Nixon continued "a peace in which the people will decide, a peace that is just for both sides, a peace which is fair to both sides, a peace which offers an equal chance to both sides."

It was the first visit ever by a U.S. president to Saigon. Nixon's visit differed in that respect from the two quick journeys former President Johnson made to the war zone in 1966 and 1967.

Johnson both times flew only into Cam Ranh Bay, a big, highly secure U.S. supply base on the coast some 180 miles from Saigon.

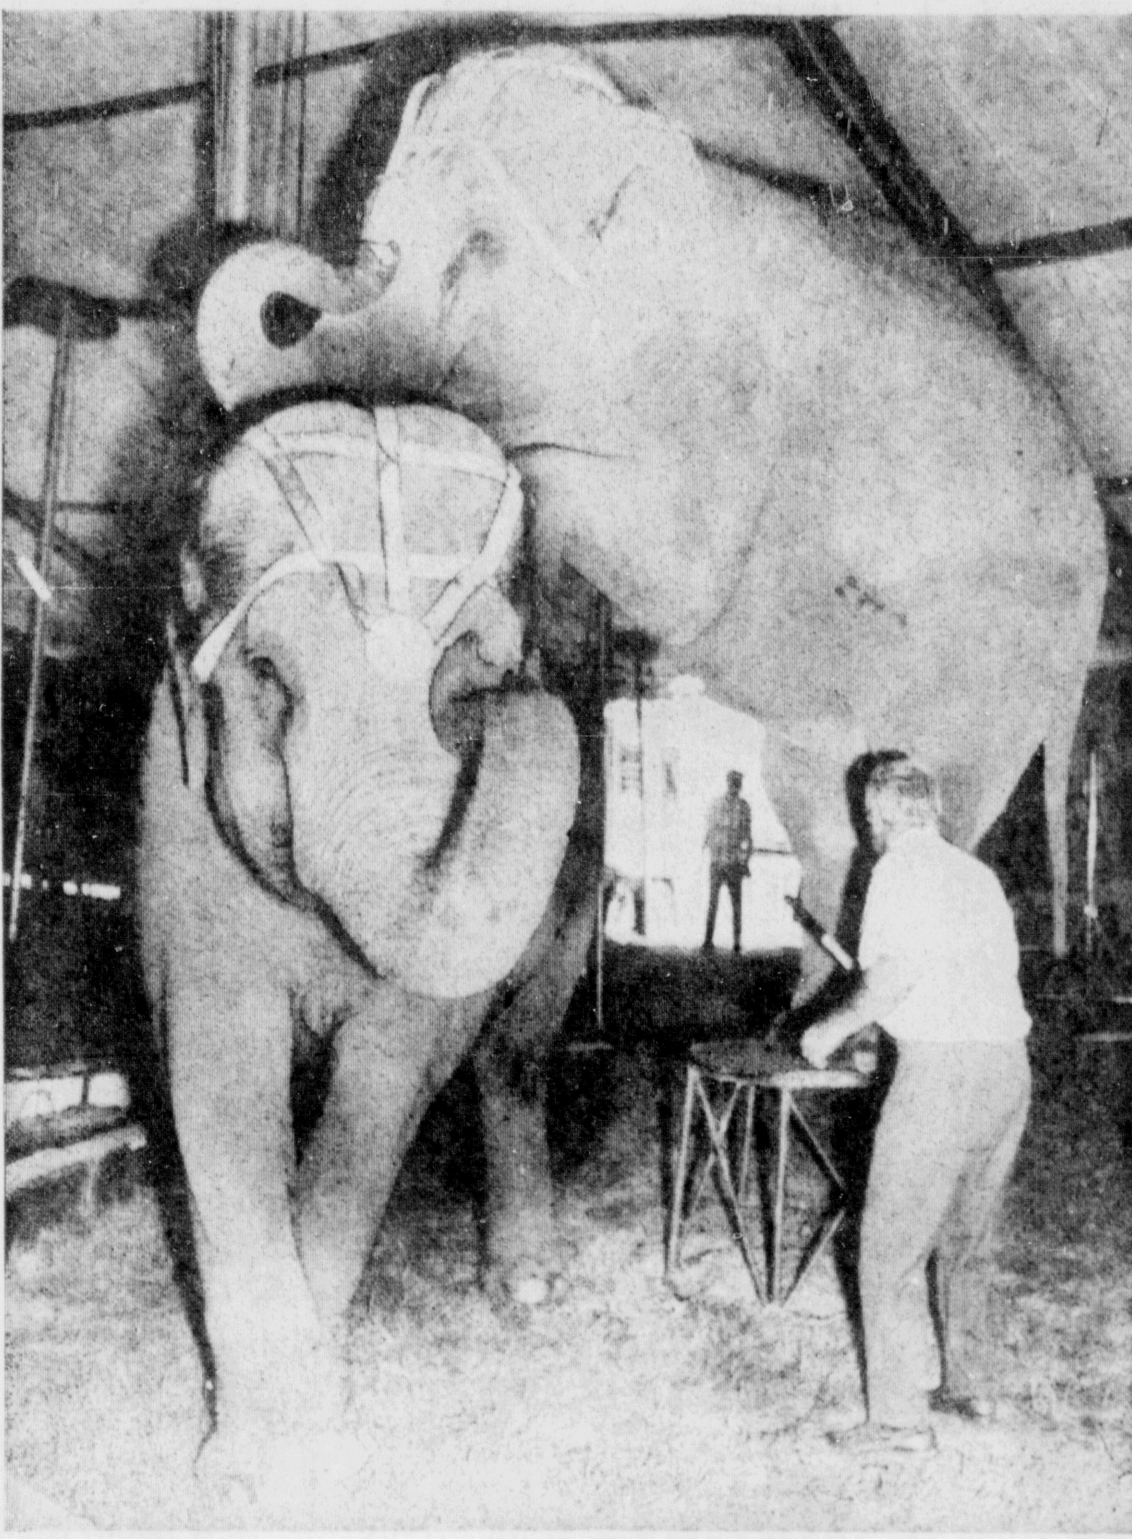

Nixon flew into Tan San Nhut airport at the South Vietnamese capital, then went by helicopter to the heart of the city for a 2½-hour conference with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu at Independence Palace. The building was an enemy mortar target when former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey visited Saigon in November 1967.

Visits Orphanage

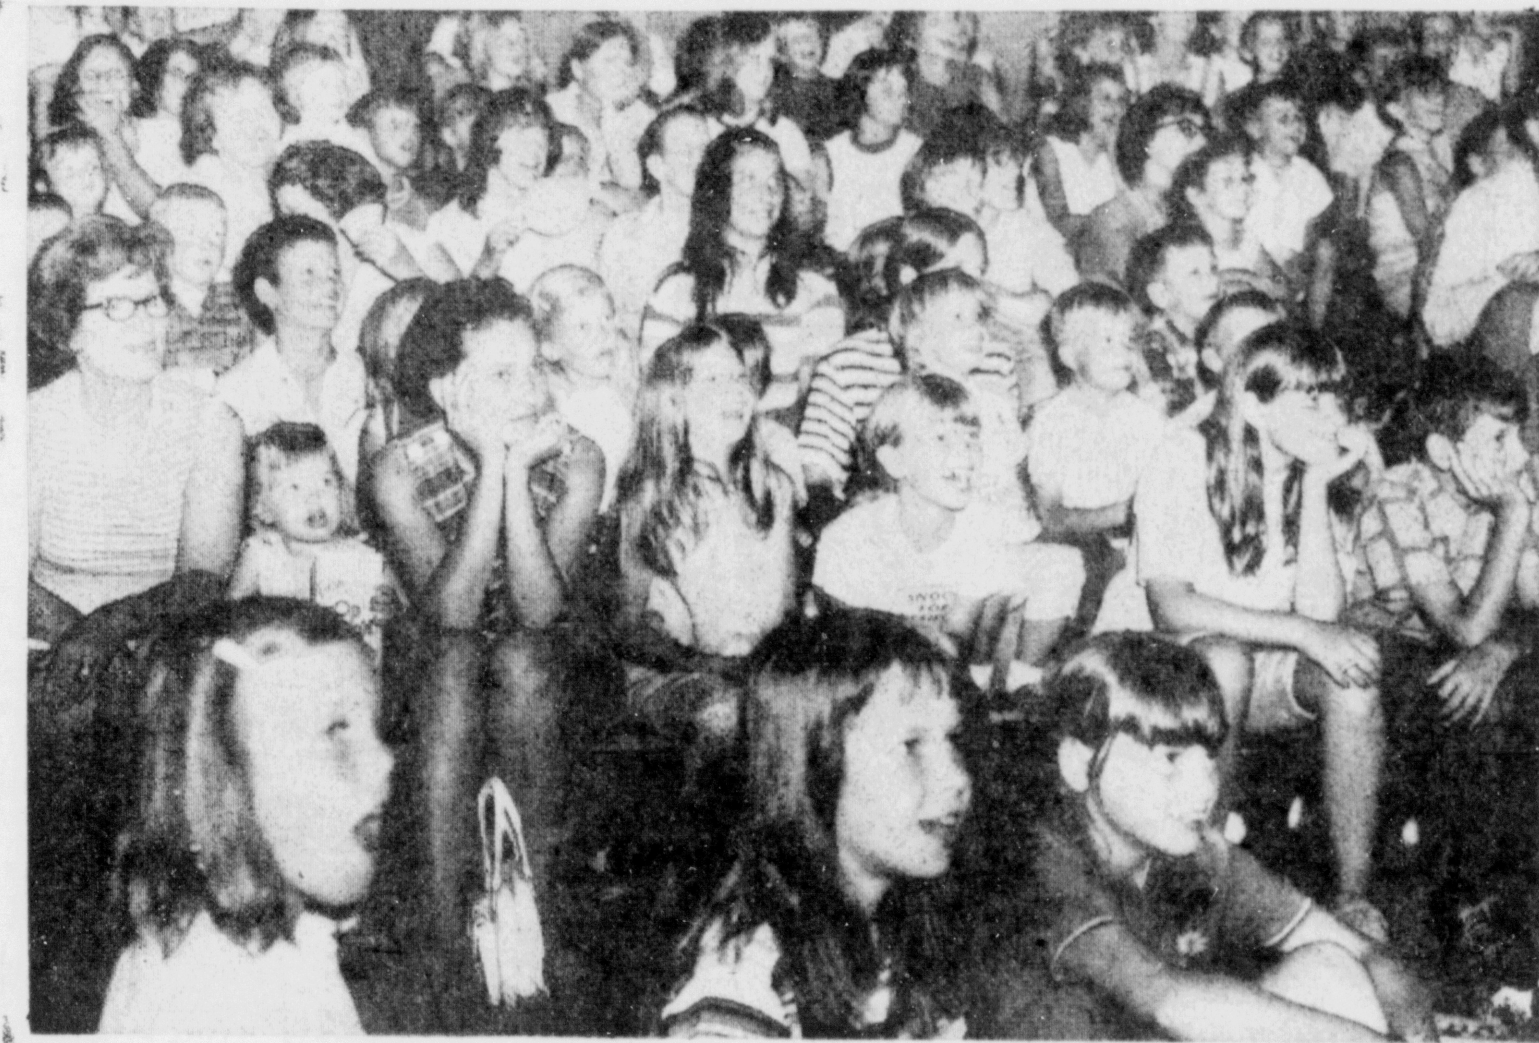

Then Nixon swooped from the palace lawn in an olive drab Army helicopter for the eight-mile trip to Di An, a brigade headquarters of the First Infantry Division northeast of Saigon. U.S. military sources said Di An was relatively safe during daylight hours but could properly be termed a combat field operation post.

Mrs. Nixon, meanwhile, also moved about with an aerial escort of some 20 armed helicopters including crack rocket-firing Cobra gunships. She flew to a Vietnamese orphanage several miles north of Saigon and called at the big Long Binh Hospital at the big Long Binh base nearby. Wounded arrive at the hospital from the battlefield.

Nixon arrived in the midst of a lull in the war which is now in its sixth week.

Meetings Friday To Close School Reading Program

The Escanaba Area public schools' summer reading program will conclude this week with parent-teacher conferences Friday.

Parents will receive special appointment times to visit their child's summer instructor. If the time is not convenient, parents should call the Lemmer school, 786-5333, or Webster school, 786-6118, for a change, said Louis Diedrich, program director.

The program served about 190 students from public and non-public schools, providing instruction in all areas of language arts for students from the post kindergarten level through the fifth grade. Speech, health and dental services also were provided.

Pitched Ball Kills Little Leaguer

LAKEVIEW (AP) — An 11-year-old boy, batting in a Little League baseball game, was struck on the head by a pitch and died without regaining consciousness Tuesday night, officials in this Montcalm County town reported.

Authorities said Gregory Sheller was wearing a batting helmet which forms a ring about the head but has an open top. John Ellafrite, who was umpiring at the baseball game, said the boy ducked his head as the pitch came toward him and the ball struck him atop his head.

Ellafrite said he leapt to the boy's side and asked, "Are you all right?" The umpire said the boy started to rise, said "Yes, I am," and then fell unconscious. He died in the hospital a short time later.

Supreme Court Acts On Sex In Mail Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The battle over sex through the mails has moved into the Supreme Court with the first test of the government's power to guard mail-boxes against "pandering" advertisements.

A group of mailers who traffic in "adult" books, magazines, films and sex paraphernalia leveled a series of constitutional objections at the 1967 law that gave citizens the right to control their mail.

The mailers' appeal is important for several reasons: (1) It could lead to a ruling killing the 1967 law; (2) It could dampen Congress' willingness to enact even stronger legislation proposed in May by the Nixon administration; (3) It poses the first important test of the Burger court's view of obscenity.

The 1967 law provides that any person who receives an advertisement he believes to be "erotically arousing" or "sexually provocative" may ask his local postmaster to direct the advertiser to stop sending mail to him.

If the advertiser refuses to strike the name from his mailing list, the local U.S. attorney may move for an injunction. If the advertiser disobeys an injunction he may be held in contempt of court.

The law took effect April 15, 1968. Since then, the Post Office has issued about 10,000 orders to mailers to knock certain people off their mailing lists. Only once so far, in New York City, has the government moved into court to try to enforce the law.

That case, directed at ads for "Dynamic Intercourse" and "Voodoo Eros," is still unsettled.

Movies Capture Lunar Landing

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — For seven minutes television viewers rode the lunar module Eagle to a landing on the moon.

They watched movies Tuesday of the moonship as it descended to the pocked surface July 20, veered away from a hazardous, gaping crater and touched down amid outflung lunar dust.

And they saw Neil A. Armstrong go cautiously down a ladder, pause, and then plant man's first footprint on the moon.

This was the first of the Apollo 11 movie footage in color and it captured much of the drama of the landing by Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.

The color films were shown to newsmen at the Manned Spacecraft Center and transmitted simultaneously by network television to viewers across the country. Part of the adventure was televised live July 20, but that was in black and white.

The first still photographs, also in color, were sprinkled with footprints and eerie silhouettes of the spaceship, and showed the American flag perched on the beach-like surface.

A second set of stills, released Tuesday night, caught Armstrong inside the lunar module, showed the landing site from above and rocks on the lunar soil. This set also included a picture of earth with Europe, Africa and Asia visible.

The 16 millimeter movie film opened as the Eagle approached the landing site, cratered and glowing and visible through Aldrin's right-hand window.

It was at about this point 10 days ago that a worldwide audience, tuned in to the space conversation, heard this exchange: Miss control: "Eagle, looking great . . . you're go!" Eagle: "700 feet . . . 300 feet . . . got the shadow out there . . . 200 feet . . . things looking good . . . lights on . . . 40 feet . . . picking up some dust . . . 30 feet . . . faint shadow . . . Houston, Tranquility base here. The Eagle has landed."

Would Approve Sale Of Blatz

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Government attorneys notified U.S. District Judge Robert E. Tehan Tuesday they would not object if he granted a motion authorizing sale of the Blatz brewery to the G. Heileman Brewing Co., of La Crosse, Wis. with the federal court by the Pabst Brewing Co. Tehan, in an antitrust decision, ordered Pabst to divest itself of the Blatz property.

Heileman has submitted a bid of $10.75 for Blatz, and the Stroh Brewing Co., of Detroit, Mich., has offered $6 million "with market support." All of the other interested bidders have withdrawn.

Tehan has called for briefs and promised an early ruling on how the Blatz facility should be disposed of.

chain still wrapped around it, were clearly visible before the pumping started.

Hoffman found the lake freighter two years ago at the spot where he said she apparently went down in a storm. He described it as a square-bowed ship—unusual for the Great Lakes—apparently built in the 1830s.

Members of his crew brought up scores of artifacts in two years of diving to the hull to prepare it for raising. Some of the articles were the kind used in the late 1850s and early 1860s, Hoffman said, and the absence of anything that came in use after the Civil War seemed to indicate that the sinking occurred about the time of the war.

The plan is to place the ship in a marine museum in Marinette, hopefully after sailing it.

Stock Market Dips Sharply

NEW YORK (AP) — An important psychological level was pierced today as the stock market declined sharply, carrying the Dow Jones industrial average through the 800 mark.

Trading early this afternoon was fairly active. Declines led advances by nearly 700 issues.

At noon, the closely-watched DJI was off 9.11 at 792.85. The last time the indicator closed below 800 was Jan. 4, 1967, when it closed at 791.14. It has been falling steadily since reaching its 1969 closing high of 968.85 on May 14.

"The breakthrough of the 800, like other hundred levels on the DJI, does have an important psychological significance for some investors," an analyst said. "When you penetrate such a level it has a bearish significance for some and you get some selling."

Another analyst said the DJI's action "underscores the bearish tone of the market," adding that "the market might try to rally again, but the key question is will it follow-through." The market made a technical advance early Tuesday, but it faded in later trading and the session closed with a loss.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was off 2.5 at 282.3, industrials off 5.8, rails off .7, and utilities off .1.

The decline stemmed in part, a broker said, from the market's steady decline, noting that "selling breeds selling. Investors see the market going down, and they sell."

Continuing economic uncertainties, such as the income-tax surcharge extension and tax-reform proposals "especially those touching on capital gains," were cited as still overhanging the market.

Aetna Life & Casualty was the most-active issue on the New York Stock Exchange, off 4¼ at 33½. A 508,200-share block of Aetna was traded.

U.S. Steel, which reported lower quarterly earnings, was off 1¼ at 38½. Other steels were off fractionally.

Douglas Explains Mead's Expansion

George Douglas, retired manager of the Escanaba Paper Co. and currently a consultant to the Mead Corporation, presented an interesting and informative program to the Gladstone Lions Club recently. Douglas spoke on the $56.5 million expansion project at the Escanaba Paper Co. and illustrated the progress of the construction by showing slides taken at the site.

Douglas said 1.5 million yards of earth was moved to prepare a site for the building and this earth covered a 40 acre field 30 feet high.

The new building is nearly a quarter mile long, 105 feet wide and 75 feet high. He said 5,300 tons of steel beams and 2,100 tons of reinforcing steel were required in the construction.

The electric generator in the power plant is the largest in Delta County and is rated at 32,000 KVA. The new power plant will use natural gas for fuel with oil as standby fuel.

'King Sized Bandaid'

Reuther Scoffs At Medical Care Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor leader Walter Reuther scoffed at President Nixon's medical care proposals Tuesday as no more than "a king sized bandaid," and called on Congress to enact a national health insurance program.

"The American people are just not going to tolerate spending billions and billions of dollars on medical care, and then getting a third rate package," said the president of the United Auto Workers Union.

Reuther, speaking at a news conference as chairman of the Committee for National Health Insurance, said a revolution in health care is crucial to give all Americans complete and fully paid medical care.

He said 30 million Americans have no health insurance at all, and those who do are covered for only an average of 38 per cent of their medical bills.

He said the committee approves Nixon's proposals to crack down on recently revealed abuses under the federal medical care program but he called it inadequate.

"There is either lack of understanding of or lack of desire to treat the basic problem," he said of Nixon's proposals to put more effective cost controls on government medical care.

At best, he said, the Nixon plan amounts to only "several boxes of aspirin and a big, king sized bandaid" in dealing with soaring medical costs and inadequate coverage and services.

He said the 100-man committee made up of educators, labor leaders, doctors, civil rights leaders and others hoped by early next year to propose a comprehensive national health insurance plan linked to Social Security.

It would provide for universal coverage of all medical expenses of all Americans, high quality medical care through group practice of doctors, reorganized service to eliminate costly waste, and a cost control system to prevent abuses.

Reuther said such a program would not amount to socialized medicine as charged by the American Medical Association.

AUNT SOLVES PROBLEM

WHITEHAVEN, England — (AP)—Doctors were puzzled when 9-week-old Patrick Walton cried a lot, choked on his bottle and seemed happy only when sitting upright. Then an aunt peered down his throat and pulled out a forgotten five-inch piece of plastic tube that had been inserted to help the baby start breathing at birth. Patrick improved immediately.

West Branch School In Trouble

WEST BRANCH (AP)—School officials have said the West Branch-Rose City area school district in Ogemaw County will not open its doors as planned Sept. 2.

They blamed a defeat of a proposal for 12-and-six-tenths mills in taxes by district voters Monday.

The proposal was defeated by more than a two to one ratio. It left the school district with only 9½ mills in taxes, less than the minimum of 10 required by the state.

Another election has been scheduled for Sept. 13. School officials say if the millage proposals are defeated again, the 2,200 students in the district will be reapportioned to the surrounding school districts.

Road Hearing

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department has scheduled a hearing Aug. 28 in Ludington on the proposed extension of U.S. 31 northward from Mason and Oceana county line to U.S. 10.

Iron Mt. Hosts Games Meet

About 100 young people who have participated in the Community School summer recreation program will go to Iron Mountain on Friday to participate in the Community School games there. All those planning to attend should meet at the recreation building at 8:45 a. m. Friday for assignment to their bus.

Girls and boys, ages seven through high school who have taken part in games such as archery, golf, tennis, baseball, and softball are eligible to attend. A group of college age boys will also enter the competition in slow pitch softball. The program has been offered under the direction of Robert Richards, Community School Director.

Cubs Baseball Era Ends

Escanaba's reign over American Legion baseball in the Upper Peninsula ended Tuesday night.

Menominee righthander Don Jacques stifled the Cubs on only two hits after the first inning and Gary Reno doubled home the winning run in the eighth inning to give Menominee a 4-3 victory over Escanaba in the finals of the District 11 tournament at Al Ness Field.

The loss broke 14 years of American Legion baseball domination in the Upper Peninsula for the Cubs which began when present Coach Al Erickson was a teenager. It also ended the season for Escanaba.

"Usually we're just getting started about this time," Erickson said softly.

Menominee's Year

This year, however, it was Menominee's turn as the visitors nicked Allen Larsen for single runs in the seventh and eighth innings to overcome a 3-2 Escanaba lead.

NMU Modifies Freshman Rule

MARQUETTE—Northern Michigan University has modified its freshman rule to make first-year athletes eligible for varsity competition in football and basketball, according to athletic director Rolfe Dotsch.

The action was taken by Northern's Athletic Council and has been approved by the University's administration.

The North adopted the freshman rule a year ago and played freshman schedules in football and basketball during 1968-69.

Dotsch said freshman schedules will continue to be played in both sports.

"We do not intend to eliminate this very vital part of our total athletic program," he explained. "We will continue to have freshman football and basketball teams because we believe they are of great value, both to the boy and to the University. However these boys will also be eligible for varsity play."

The rule modification allows for freshman eligibility providing "opponents use them in varsity competition and they have met NCAA requirements and institutional rules."

"The NCAA allows the use of freshman athletes during the regular season," Dotsch pointed out, "but they are not eligible for post-season competition in football and basketball."

reached first when Cub shortstop Dan Mylander bobbled his bounce over the mound and moved to second on a wild pitch. He scored on a smash to right by Joe Hermanson.

Another Escanaba miscue set up the winning run in the eighth inning as Rick Hoefler's liner got past center-fielder Ken Robitaille for an extra base. Larsen, pitching in relief of starter Doug Howard who had blanked Menominee

Saturday to get the Cubs to the finals, retired Mike Tessier on a pop to the mound and Jim Beyer on a grounder to second, but Reno lashed a drive down the left field line past the outstretched glove of diving third baseman Joe Jordan to plate the final run.

Given his second lead of the game, Jacques made it stand up by retiring the Cubs in order in the eighth and yielding only a pinch hit single by Brian Larsen with two out in the ninth.

Larsen's hit was the fourth of the game off Jacques, but only the second since the first inning when a leadoff single by Robitaille, a sacrifice bunt by Howard and Gregg Johnson's double produced the Cubs first run.

Menominee tied the game in the fourth when Gary Enstrom singled with one out and rode home on a double by Jacques. The visitors went ahead in the sixth, 2-1, as Dewey Bellisle's drive to the left field fence caromed off Robitaille's glove for a double and Tessier singled him home. Escanaba took its 3-2 lead in the home half of the sixth without a hit.

Called For Balk

Howard walked and moved to third when Menominee shortstop Hermanson tossed Mylander's hopper into center field trying for a force on Howard at second. He was out, however, trying to score after Mylander was trapped off first on a wide turn.

Mylander moved to second on the play at the plate and Johnson was intentionally walked, setting up the weird sequence which gave the Cubs their final two runs. As Jacques started his motion to the plate, Mylander broke for third and when Jacques stopped to throw to third he was called for a balk, advancing both runners.

Tom Kangas then lifted a fly to left, Mylander scoring, and Johnson making third. When the throw from the outfield skipped past third base, Johnson headed home and made it standing up when Enstrom dropped the throw.

Fans 12 Cubs

Jacques fanned 12 Cubs, striking out the side in the third inning in picking up the victory. Larsen was the loser. Menominee will advance to the Zone 5 tournament next Saturday at Ishpeming, facing the winner of the Ishpeming-Iron Mountain playoff in District 12. Ishpeming forced a third game Tuesday night as Marvin Neimi clubbed a grand slam homer in a 13-8 Ishpeming victory.

Injury List Grows:

Twins Rip Lolich, McLain

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL — (AP) — Time ran out Tuesday night for Mickey Lolich and Dennis McLain, at least against the Minnesota Twins.

The two Detroit Tiger aces had not lost to the Twins since 1967. McLain, shooting for his 16th victory of the year, last lost to the Twins in September, 1967. Lolich, gunning for No. 15, fell to the Twins in June 1967.

The Twins piled up a 5-0 lead on Lolich and held on for a 5-2 victory in the first game of a doubleheader. The second game never was close. The Twins battered McLain for 11 of their 17 hits and nine of their 11 runs in an 11-5 rout.

A crowd of 38,441 saw the Twins beat the Tiger aces.

The Tigers sent Earl Wilson, 9-7, against the Twins' Jim Kaat, 10-6, tonight.

"Swinging Bats Good"

"It means an awful lot when you beat two of the better pitchers in the league," said Twins Manager Billy Martin. "That was just tremendous. We have been hitting the ball hard, swinging these bats good."

The sweep increased Minnesota's West Division lead in the American League to 3½ games over second place Oakland while 1968 world champion Detroit fell into a second place tie with Boston in the East Division.

Detroit Manager Mayo Smith, obviously distressed at the doubleheader loss, mumbled he didn't recall Lolich and McLain losing consecutive games "but I don't recall having them pitch back-to-back before. I'm sure they've lost in the same series sometime before now."

Had High Fever

After the twinbill it was disclosed that McLain had been suffering from a touch of pneumonia and had been sent home to Detroit.

McLain was examined by one of the Twins' team doctors, Dr. Len Michienzi, who prescribed rest. The doctor said that McLain was suffering from a high fever.

"I haven't felt very good for three, four days and knew something was wrong," McLain said. But this isn't an alibi for losing. I had pretty good stuff but every ball they hit was a shot."

Smith said he did not know if Lolich, 14-3, would miss his next turn because of a bruise raised on his pitching elbow, which was struck by a sharp grounder off the bat of Rod Carew.

The groundout in the third inning advanced pitcher Jim Perry, 12-4, and Cesar Tovar to second and third before Harmon Killebrew was walked to load the bases.

Tony Oliva chased home two runs with a pop fly double, a third scored on a Bob Allison grounder. Carew, who raised his major league leading batting average to .375 with four hits in the two games, cracked a two-run homer in the fifth off Lolich.

First Lolich Homer

It was the first homer off Lolich this season.

Oliva started off the scoring in the seven-run fifth inning with a 453-foot homer off McLain in the nightcap, his 14th, after Carew singled. Leo Cardenas slapped a two-run single, Ted Uhlenhuth a two-run triple and Carew a run-scoring infield single before Oliva was put out to end the inning.

McLain, suffering from a touch of pneumonia, was sent home to Detroit after the game.

Harmon Killebrew later added his 30th homer off reliever John Hiller.

The Twins had gotten two runs in the first inning as Gates Brown, filling in for injured Jim Northrup, committed two errors and misplayed Killebrew's pop fly double.

Cash Connects

Northrup, of Detroit pulled a hamstring muscle in his right leg. It was not known how long the injury would keep him out of the line-up, Smith said.

Tom Matlack's double, a bases-loaded ground out, Norm Cash's two-run homer and Don Wert's solo shot produced Tiger runs in the nightcap.

A fielder's choice grounder and Jim Price's single accounted for the two Bengal runs in the opener, as Price totaled two runs batted in for the evening.

Robinson's Daring Dash Home Triggers Baltimore Triumph

By The Associated Press

Frank Robinson got it started with some daring base running, but in the end it was the Baltimore Orioles' trademark of 1969 — power — that carried them to a 4-1 victory over Kansas City Tuesday night.

Robinson, who is as hot as the plate as the Orioles are in making a shambles of the American League East race, tripled leading off the fourth inning and raced home when Jerry Adair of the Royals took his time relaying the ball to the infield.

The play proved something Manager Earl Weaver has been saying: "This club is capable of running a lot more than we have."

Robinson shrugged off his basepath exploit with, "I just took off."

He confirmed that Adair's slow reaction prompted his move.

"He didn't seem to be in too much of a rush to get the ball back in, and he was out on the grass with his hands down," said Robinson. "I knew it would take a real good throw to get me I got to third, turned and saw him and when I got so far off, I just took off."

Powell Hits 28th

Robinson slid home easily as Adair's throw sailed past catcher Ellie Rodriguez, and the Orioles had broken the ice against former teammate Wally Bunker, now 5-8.

John "Boog" Powell then unloaded his 28th home run for a 2-0 buge for Mike Cuellar, and he needed no more in hurling the Orioles to their fifth straight win.

Just to make certain, however, Don Buford and Paul Blair lashed consecutive doubles in the fifth for another run, then Buford walked, stole second and scored on Blair's single in the seventh.

Cuellar yielded a run in the fourth when the Royals bunched three of their eight hits to score on Adair's single, but otherwise he permitted only one runner to reach third in boosting his record to 12-9.

Elsewhere in the American League, Oakland nipped the New York Yankees 6-5. California topped the Boston Red Sox 4-3, California topped Boston 4-3, Washington trimmed Seattle 4-2 and Cleveland won a pair from the Chicago White Sox, 4-3 in 11 innings and 9-5.

Pinch hitter Ramon Webster's two-run triple and Bob Johnson's pinch single in the eighth gave the Athletics a 6-4 lead before relievers Paul Lindblad and Ed Sprague snuffed out a ninth inning New York rally, stranding the tying run on third.

Jackson Hits 40th

Reggie Jackson slammed his 40th homer for the A's and the Yankees' Joe Pepitone drove in three runs with a single and his 20th homer.

Jay Johnstone cracked a lead-off homer in the bottom of the ninth, sending the Angels past Boston and out of the West calendar for the first time since May 9.

The Senators snapped a 2-2 tie at Seattle on successive eighth inning homers by Ken McMullen and Bernie Allen, enabling right-hander Joe Coleman to square his season mark at 8-8.

Duke Sims drilled a game-winning homer in the 11th inning of the Cleveland-Chicago opener and the Indians exploded for the runs in the 7th inning of the nightcap, Eddie Leary capping the burst with a three-run homer.

The White Sox, who have lost seven in a row, slipped into last place in the West, one-half game behind Philadelphia.

The Braves were two games behind the Giants while the Dodgers are a game back.

Lead Washed Out

The Braves lost a chance to gain ground when they exploded for seven runs in the second inning and were leading 8-0 after three innings over the Phillies in Philadelphia when the rains came. After a wait of 52 minutes, the umpires postponed the two-night twin bill and the Braves avalanche of base hits was washed out.

In Cincinnati, however, Reds Manager Dave Bristol didn't mind his lack of a shower until after the game.

"Did you notice I didn't go to the mound at all tonight," Bristol remarked after the game. "Matter of fact, it might have been the only time I haven't gone to it this season."

It was the first complete game by a Red starter since July 8. And only the 13th complete game by the Cincinnati staff. Merritt owns five of them as he upped his record to 10-4.

The Expos tagged the Merritt in the fourth inning with Jose Herrara's double getting in both Montreal runs. The Reds had taken a 2-0 lead on Chico Ruiz' two-run single.

Mays Triples

Willie Mays tripled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh and Willie McCovey, who earlier cracked his 32nd homer, scored Mays with a sacrifice fly in leading the Giants over the Cubs. Jim Hickman had a solo homer for Chicago.

Tom Hutton cracked a two-run single, highlighting a four-run sixth inning rally, helping the Dodgers to their second game victory over the Pirates after Willie Stargell's two-run 10th-inning homer had given Pittsburgh the first game.

Sewage System Sought For Indian Lake Area

The Schoolcraft County Health Department will request a meeting with city and Hiawatha Township officials and the Indian Lake Property Owners Association to discuss installation of a sewage disposal system in the Indian Lake area which would hook up with the municipal sewage system, County Sanitarian Boyd Briggs said Tuesday.

The area under consideration would be the east shore of Indian Lake and the State Road area along the Indian River. The Health Department feels such a system is necessary, Briggs said, for the protection of the community which draws its water from Indian Lake.

Since pollution of Indian Lake caused a three-day closing of the Indian Lake State Park Beach recently, the Health Department has conducted continual samplings of the water.

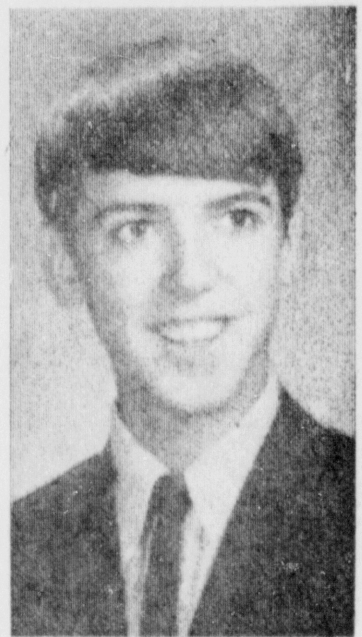

"Bacteria counts are down to a safe range normal for surface water, although we did receive some samples that ran higher than others. These were spotty and mainly along the east shore of Indian Lake in the vicinity of the Copenhagen Bridge," Briggs said.

Several sewage systems have been corrected or action initiated for correction, but the problem still exists as far as sub-surface sewage disposal is concerned.

The majority of the sewage systems on the east shore and along the Indian River are so situated that they will always present a possible health hazard anytime that we have high water, as we have had this spring, Briggs said.

The area is so low that it is practically impossible to get three feet of good soil between the tile field and the ground water table, a minimum requirement. The area has built up to the point where it cannot continue pouring raw sewage into a low water-saturated soil and still maintain a safe and healthy condition, Briggs added.

Until some positive action can be taken the Health Department has no alternative other than to start placing tighter restrictions on the installation of new septic systems in the affected areas, Briggs concluded.

David Rood Jr. Awarded 4-Year GM Scholarship

David A. Rood Jr., 516 Manistique Ave., has been awarded a four-year General Motors college scholarship by Alma College. The announcement came from Donald J. Curran of Curran Chevrolet Sales in Manistique.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Rood, the young man plans to pursue a course in mathematics.

A 1968 graduate of Manistique High School, David was president of his senior class, vice president of the junior class and was active in the band, Latin Club, golf team and school publications.

The GM scholarship is one of 293 awarded annually by over 240 colleges and universities throughout the country as part of GM's overall program of support for higher education.

In all, more than 1,200 students are attending colleges with GM assistance. Each scholarship is valued at from $200 to $2,000 a year depending on the need of the student. All private colleges participating in the program also receive annual grants-in-aid from GM of $500 to $800 per scholarship, based on tuition costs.

Art Club Hosts Annual Art Fair

Sponsored by the Manistique Art Club, the Fair will feature original paintings and crafts. All local and visiting artists and craftsmen are invited to exhibit their works.

In case of rain the Fair will be moved to the new Gym. A special feature of interest this year will be a "bargain table" of original paintings and drawings.

Mrs. William Foye, Indian Lake, is chairman of this year's Fair. Admission is free.

Fire Destroys Walker Home

Fire completely destroyed the frame home of Ernest Walker, 80-year-old Gulliver resident on Monday afternoon.

Public Safety firemen responded to a call at 4:20 p.m. but were unable to save the flame-engulfed structure. The Mueller Township fire department assisted in fighting the blaze.

Most of Mr. Walker's personal and household effects were destroyed in the blaze but were covered by insurance. His home was located on County Road 432 near the Doyle Elementary School. He is temporarily living with relatives in the area.

Hospital

Admitted to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital were Nancy Peterson, Margaret Burton, Clyde Hardwick, Cecil Berogen and Colleen Faketty.

Discharged were William Evenson, Mary Sabal, Ole Larson and Beverly DeWindt.

Chamber To Petition Council On Parking

A chamber of commerce delegation will appear before the City Council — possibly at their Aug. 11 meeting — and request that the downtown off-street parking program be re-activated.

After hearing city manager Robert Noe report on Monday night's council meeting and the urban renewal program the city is currently considering, the board of directors again unanimously endorsed the off-street parking plan and decided to enlist support from a cross-section of chamber membership to visit the council and discuss future action.

Should such a program be inaugurated, the city could claim a credit of the total parking project cost toward their 25 per cent contribution to the urban renewal project.

The off-street parking plan was dropped by the city last month after violent opposition from property owners who would be assessed to pay for the program.

Also during their Tuesday morning breakfast meeting at the Surf, the directors approved changing the chamber name Top O'Lake to Manistique Area Chamber of Commerce. The general membership will be balloted by mail and will vote on the proposal at an October general membership dinner-meeting.

The board approved formation of an "Ambassador's Club" within the chamber which will welcome visitors and newcomers.

ers and perhaps solicit membership from the business community. Mrs. Jeanne Larson and Clarence Peterson were asked to submit a cost estimate for blazer jackets for the good-will "Ambassadors."

Before adjourning, the directors agreed to act as coordinators for local Michigan Week activities in 1970.

Muskegon Has New Fireboat

MUSKEGON (AP) — Named in honor of four firemen who died in the flames aboard the steamship "Illinois" 24 years ago, a 56-foot vessel born as a landing craft is now cruising Muskegon harbor as a fireboat and emergency vessel.

The "Firefighter 4" is government surplus and Muskegon fire chief Donald E. Caswell said a fireboat of comparable size would have cost the city at least $60,000 if converted, and $75,000-$100,000 if new.

But Muskegon's fire department did the conversion work itself. Assistant chief Ben Tripp designed the fireboat and supervised installation of the huge pumps below decks.

The vessel can push its 35 tons along at up to 10 knots and can carry up to 80 persons for rescue work.

Caswell said it is the only fireboat on the western shore of Lake Michigan and is available "in case freighters are afire on their way down the lake near our shoreline."

Briefly Told

State Police ticketed Michael L. Innes, Berkley, and Ronald J. Gillingham, 716 Manistique Ave., both for speeding on Monday.

Ben Jewett, Rte. 1, Gulliver, reported someone had broken some windows in his cabin located in Sec. 9, Doyle Township. Troopers are investigating the complaint.

Three walkers and a wheel chair are available for use by any family or individual, according to an announcement by the local Easter Seals-Crippled Children's Society. Mrs. Robert Broullire, 341-5178, may be contacted for further information.

Drugs Purge Body Of DDT Residues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Evidence has been revealed that two drugs can purge the human body of residues of the pesticide DDT, the Food and Drug Administration has reported.

The medical significance, however, in the performance of phenobarbital or diphenylhydantoin has not been established, the FDA added Tuesday. The drugs are commonly used to control convulsive disorders.

The finding came in an FDA pesticide study in Dade County, Fla.

Student Turmoil Topic At Hearing

EAST LANSING (AP) — There is a danger in overreaction to student unrest, contends the dean of the University of Michigan Medical School.

Dr. W.N. Hubbard, participating in a conference on student turmoil at Michigan State University, made the observation Tuesday.

"The real danger that confronts higher education today is the reaction to student unrest," Hubbard said. "It now is extraordinarily advantageous politically to react heavily handedly to campus disorders."

"The business of universities," he said, "is people and the self fulfillment of people." Len Handelsman, a sociology student recently expelled by the University of Chicago, said America's entire educational system is now under attack.

Bring Changes He maintained that the universities will be changed when a revolution brings about changes in American society.

David Keene, national vice chairman of Young Americans for Freedom, said a university must provide an opportunity for those who differ with the prevailing ideology of society or the campus.

"The current attack on higher education is directed at destroying a major function of the university, its function as a forum where various views can be discussed," he said.

David Goldfarb, student president at the University of Wisconsin, contended that this country is "a corporate society made up of people with corporate mentalities."

Today's students who demand a role in making the decisions that affect them and who insist upon individual responsibility may not be able to find a place in business," he said.

Little Action "I'm not sure business can absorb them," Goldfarb commented.

Bruce Morrison, a graduate student at the University of Illinois, said students are becoming convinced that persuasion doesn't work and that force and power are more effective. "That is one thing the colleges have done a good job of teaching," he added.

Lewis Young, an editor of Business Week magazine said that "except for small talk, there's been damn little action (in the field of social problems) in business."

"A role for the socially conscious student in business is far off and it will come slowly," Young said.

Senior Men's Golf Tournament play at Manistique's Indian Lake Golf and Country Club last weekend. Action Halted On IRS Move

ROYAL OAK (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee has agreed to halt action on moving an Internal Revenue Service data processing center from Detroit to suburban Oak Park, and begin plans for construction of the new building in the inner city.

The decision by Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W.Va.) followed a request by Sen. Phillip A. Hart (D-Mich.) that the planned move be stopped. Randolph's committee has final say on movement of any federal building.

In response to a plea from Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh in June, Hart asked Randolph that his committee forestall any decision. Hart came out publicly against the move on Monday by calling it, "a waste of funds" in light of urban renewal and the federal government has purchased in Detroit for a new data computer center.

In a letter to Hart today, Randolph said, "The Public Works Committee staff has carefully viewed the proposal to lease the building for a term of five years and determined it would be a costly stop-gap solution to the long-term space requirements" of the IRS in Detroit.

Randolph also said he has urged the General Service Administration (GSA) to ask Congress for funds to construct the new building in Detroit.

The GSA is in charge of housing government agencies.

Support Exists For Shipbuilding Reports Ford

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., said Tuesday there is strong support in Congress for a substantial stepup in American merchant ship construction.

The House Republican leader said Congress is completing a funding program sufficient to build 18 to 22 new container cargo ships in the next 12 months, compared with a current rate of 12 ships a year.

In a speech to the 14th biennial convention of the Seafarers' International Union, AFL-CIO, Ford said the proposed rate is a bare minimum and must be kept up annually until 1977 to meet the essential general cargo requirements of the American merchant marine.

Congress, Ford said, has long recognized the need to replace antiquated ships, "but we have repeatedly run into a hatchet job at the Budget Bureau."

The Maritime Administration, he said, is putting together a good new maritime program, but its recommendations will have to clear the Budget Bureau — "and that is the critical factor."

Ford predicted that the new program would simplify processes of administering the operating and construction differential subsidies.

Hit Broadside

FLINT, Michigan — (AP) — A Fostoria couple, Clifford J. Allen, 45, and his wife Jo Anne, 44, were killed Tuesday when their pickup truck went out of control after being sideswiped by a passenger car. Their truck was then hit broadside by a gravel truck near Otisville on Dodge Road and M-15.
